SPEAKER REED'S SPEECH

OUTLINES THE CONGRESSIONAL POLICY OF HIS PARTY,

ALL PRECEDENT TO THE CONTRARY And Congress Converted Into a Mere Ma-chine to Register the Republican

Caucus With-Other News. WASHINGTON, April 28 .- [Special.]-Speaker Reed's Pittsburg speech was almost the sole topic of discussion around the capitol to-

It was the unanimous opinion of the de crats that in it he disgraced his high position by dirty blackguardism. He came down from his high place of honor to make a demagogne of himself. He cast off his dignity, and emulated the swine which returns to wallow.

The speech prepares the country for the enactment of a federal election law that would make the fathers of the country and the framers of the constitution turn in their graves if they knew it. DEFINES REPUBLICAN POLICY.

Reed's speech and Chandler's resolution defined the position of the republican party in a nutshell. Under the present rules of the house, any measure, however unjust or ob-noxious to the minority, can be passed in the lower branch of congress. It is only in the senate that its passage could be blocked by a full and fair discussion of its provisions. Chandler's resolution designs to suppress all discussion in the senate, as Reed's rules do in the house. In commenting on Reed's speech today Judge Crisp says:

"It is a vile slander on the people of the south. There is no demand for a federal elecsion by the best people, either north or south. Certain republican politicians have endeav ored to create such a demand in the north, by misrepresentations and slanderous statements as to the condition of affairs in the south, for the purpose of justifying them in the south, for the purpose of justifying them in the passage of a law, looking ostensibly to the purity of elections, but really intended to secure the appointment of republican returning boards in every district to falsify the real vote, and certify the election of republican congressmen from the south, whether they are in fact elected or not. Mr. Reed is a type of that class of politicians who will hesitate at nothing to keep the republi-can party in power. His speech at Pittsburg strates this. He says the people at the south justify election frauds. This statement is absolutely untrue, and no man, who had a proper regard for the truth, would say such a Even the scurvy politician who seems to see the things he does not, ought to preserve an appearance of decency. No party necessi-ty can justify such slanders and abuse of a people.

Southern men, as a class, will always be found true to any principle of honor. Any one who knows them is aware of this, and such atterances as those attributed to Mr. Reed, in his Pittsburg speech, can only have the effect of belittling him; they cannot hurt us."

CONGRESSMAN WILSON'S VIEWS. Congressman W. L. Wilson, of West Vir-

"Mr. Reed's speech is very significant. He told briefly what the republican party expects to do in the matter of a federal election law. That law, under the house rules, could be passed with ease in the lower body, and its only chance of stoppage is in the senate. It cannot believe that Mr. Chandler's resolution will be adopted,

Years ago, Henry Clay attempted to have the senate adopt such a rule, as it had been adopted by the house, but despite the fact that he had the entire senate at his back, there was a tremendous storm of protest, and Mr. Clay abandoned the idea as impracticable and unjust. The federal election law, as it is proposed to pass, is a usurpation of the rights of a state. There is only one step farther that car be taken, and that is to abolish the right to vote. The framers of the constitution had no idea that, at any future time, any party would have the audacity to propose such a law. The republican idea is to take from the hands of the states the machinery of elections. This is opposed to the spirit of the constitution. The states have not only the right to conduct the election of their representatives in congress, but have the right to decide whether these congressmen are elected. The general govern ment has, in my opinion, no right to interfere in such matters. It means a centralization of power, and would, in my opinion, cause great surbance all over the country. As Se Pugh said, it would tend to create violent physical demonstrations, and would probably result in bloodshed. The present rules of the house do not allow the enactment of laws as the result of discussion, but on the contrary, the laws that are being passed by the house are caucus measures that are hatched up in secret conference, brought into the house, and passed with no discussion regarding the merits of the law in question. The judiciary bill that was passed the other day, one of the most important that congress has considered on, and involving a complete change in the judiciary system, was passed after an hour's discussion. For that reason, I think that the Chandler resolution will fail in the senate. It is against all precedent. It is just as revolutionary as Mr. Reed's rulings, and has the same ultimate object, the suppression of opin on on the part of legislators.' The probabilities are that the debate on this resolution will be one of the bitterest ever seen in the senate. Its importance is manifest when the McComas so-called anti-gerrymandering bill and the federal election law depend for their passage upon its adoption.

Both sides are preparing themselves for the debate.

J. LOWRY BELL IN TROUBLE. The civil service commission this afternoon served notice on the secretary of the treasury to stop the payment of the salaries of two railway mail clerks, who had been appointed in violation of laws. J. Lowry Bell, superintendent of the railway mail service, has disre-garded and evaded the provisions of the law ever since he went into office. He has done it with impunity, too. But a few days ago he made the fatal mistake of stepping on the hoels of a republican congressman, in dischargng two of that gentleman's personal friends. After this indiscretion, he is to be hauled up before the commission, pending which a sort of injunction has been served on the secretary of the treasury. It seems that Maurice and James O'Brien, of Albany, N. Y., constituents of Tracey, in the railway mail service, were removed by Bell, and two spoilsmen appointed to office without undergoing the civil service examination as required by law. Representative Tracey, when informed of the circumstances, notified Commissioner Lyman, and the latter personally inquired into the case, and finding that the violation of law had been flagrant and open, laid the matter before the commission, with the recommendation that the treasury department be notified to stop the payment of the saalries of the two men appointed. The commission this afternoon acted favorably on Lyman's report, and a very saucy letter was addressed to Mr. Windom, citing the circumstances as above related.

GEORGIA POSTMASTERS.

Georgia postmasters appointed today were Mrs. S. Cochran, Fairburn, Campbell county; Willie E. Trambro, Greenway, Troupe county; I. N. Staplet, Harville, Bullock county; N. L. Bailey, Hardmont, Elbert county; R. S. Long. Satilla Bluff. Camden county.

Mrs. Crisp and family will return to Americus Thursday. They have spent the winter in Washington. Hon. Flem duBignon spent to day here.

THE ATHENS POSTOFFICE. The letters from the citizens of Athens to Mr. Wanamaker, requesting the withdrawal of the nomination of Matt Davis as postmaster at Athens, it is believed here will have some effect. Indeed, it is just possible that Mr. Wanamaker will withdraw the nomination which is yet "hung up" in the senate. He has been rather inclined to do so for some time, but the threats of boycotting his Philadelphia house have made him hold out. However, now that he has been petitioned to do so in a dignified and courteous manner, and having assurances that the senate will not confirm the negro, it is believed by many of the Georgians that another appoint-ment will be made. However, Mr. Wanamaker will say nothing of his intentions now.

E. W. B. CONSIDERED BY CONGRESS.

The Arizona Bill-The Land Forfeiture Bill,

Etc.
Washington, April 28.—In connection with the presentation of the memorial in relation to the presentation of the memorial in relation to the Mississippi river, a discussion sprang up in the senate, and was participated in by many senators, the point turning on the question whether the levee system or outlet system was the correct one, or whether there should not be a combination of the two. After the discussion had continued some time, the vice-president said that there was no question before the senate, and the business of the morning hour was proceeded with.

Mr. Blackburn introduced a bill for the admission of the state of Arizona. Referred.

ing hour was proceeded with.

Mr. Blackburn introduced a bill for the admission of the state of Arizona. Referred.

Mr. Call gave notice that on the 15th of May he would address the senate on the joint resolution, heretofore offered by him, as to the opening of negotiations with Spain to allow Cuba to establish a republic.

The land forfeiture bill was then taken up, the pending question being Mr. Call's amendment in relation to railroad lands in Florida.

Mr. Pasco argued against the amendment and stated the grounds on which he disagreed with his colleague in the matter.

The two Florida senators carried on a colloquial discussion with each other for over two hours, and then Mr. Dolph made a statement in opposition to Mr. Call's amendment as not presenting a proper subject for legislation, which prompted Mr. Call to restate some of the points in the matter (which affected, he said, 550,000 acres between Waldo and Tampa that were claimed by two or three men and that were partly occupied by hard-working, honest settlers, whose rights his amendment would protect) and to declare that the pending bill was really a new appropriation of the public domain and not forfeiture.

The bill went over without action, Mr. Plumb giving notice that he would ask the senate to sit it out tomorrow.

On motion of Mr. Evarts, the senate bill to enate to sit it out tomorrow.

On motion of Mr. Evarts, the senate bill to incorporate the society of the Sons of America, a resolution reported by him from the library committee, was taken from the calendar and committee, was taken from the calendar and read.

Mr. Ingalls questioned the necessity and propriety of allowing the society to hold property in the District of Columbia to the large amount of $500,000, and also having his incorporated by congress when it could be done under a general law. He intimated that there might be something veiled, disguised and concealed in allowing the society to hold such a large amount of property.

Mr. Plumb made some satirical remarks about the efforts to encourage patriotism that was "lying around loose in the country," and moved to amend the bill by providing that the privileges conferred in the bill should be extended to the Grand Army of the Republic.

As there was no quorum voting on the consultant the very large trails are fourteen.

As there was no quorum voting on the amendment, the vote being twelve to fourteen, the senate, without action on the bill, ad-

What the House Did. Washington, April 28.—The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill passed the house without division. The house then went into committee of the whole (Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, in the chair) on bills relating to the district of Columbia.

The pending bill was that for the establishment of Rock Creak nark.

ment of Rock Creek park.

On motion of Mr. Payson, of Illinois, an amendment was adopted providing for a special assessment upon property directly benefited by the location of the park—the assessment to be made by a commission to be ap-pointed by the president. The balance of the sum required for the establishment of the park is to be paid equally by the United States The motion to recommit failed, and the bill

The committee having risen, the Rock Creek park bill was defeated—yeas 78, nays 88. Mr. Hemphill, of South Carolina, voted in the negative in order to move a reconsideration.

This motion having been made, the house, at 5:15 adjourned.

The Correspondents Were Paid. Washington, April 28.—Senator Jones, of Nevada, chairman of the committee on contingent expenses, today signed warrants for the payment of witness' fees to correspondents subpenaed by the special committee appointed to investigate the publication of proceedings of executive sessions of the senate. ceedings of executive sessions of the senate. The correspondents were in attendance upon the committee two days only, but having been kept under subpœna [fifty-one days, warrants were made out for the sun of $153 each. The expenses of the investigation have amounted to about $2,000.

War Claims Disallowed.

War Claims Disallowed.

Washington, April 28.—The house committee on war claims has authorized an adverse report on the bill appropriating $231,500 to reimburse the towns of Frederick, Hagerstown and Middletown, Md., the war assessments levied on them by General Jubal Early in 1864, by way of retaliation against the United States. The committee also decided to report adversely the bill introduced by Representative Fenster, appropriating $882,300 to reimburse the state of Kansas for money expended in the settlement of claims of citizens of that state for property captured or destroyed by confederate forces during the late war.

The Clayton-Breckinridge Investigation. The Clayton-Breckinridge Investigation.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 28.—The Clayton-Breckinridge Investigation committee examined 195 witnesses today. All but three were colored voters who testified that they were at Plummerville, Conway county, on the day of the presidential election, and voted for John M. Clayton for congress. County Judge J. H. Merritt, of Arkansas county, testified that he always gave the republicans representation on election boards whenever requested to do so. Last year, no one asked him to appoint any republicans to do so, and all the judges and clerks named were democrats.

A Cashier Missing.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 28.—Some excitement prevails at Nottingham, Ala., over the disappearan ce of Gary Pittman, cashier of the bank of Nottingham, and diligent search is being made for him. Pittman is also treasurer of Albany, Ga. The condition of the bank is not known except through reports.

BARRELS OF LIQUOR CAN BE SENT INTO A PROHIBITION

STATE.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION RENDERED

State Cannot Forbid Original Packages of Liquor from Crossing Its Lines and Being Received by the Importer.

WASHINGTON, April 28 .- The United States supreme court today rendered an opinion of great interest to all states in which prohibition prevails.

Gus Leisy & Co. are beer brewers in Peoria Ill. They sent some of their product in sealed kegs and cases, by means of railroads, to Keokuk, Ia., where their agent, a non-resident, offered it for sale in original cases. The liquor was seized by A. J. Hardin, marshal of Keokuk, under the prohibition laws of Iowa. Leisy & Co. brought suit against the marshal, alleging that the seizure was unconstitutional and void, being in violation of the clause of the constitution giving the United States exclusive right to regulate interstate commerce.

The Keokuk court decided in favor of the liquor men, but on an appeal to the supreme court of Iowa, the prohibitionists won, whereupon the liquor men brought the case to this court. The case has become widely known as the "original package" case and has at-tracted a great deal of attention.

OPINION OF THE COURTS. Chief Justice Fuller delivered the opinion of the court to-day. The court says the power vested in congress to regulate commerce among the several states is power to prescribe the rule by which that commerce is to be governed, and is a power complete in itselt, acknowledging no limitations other than those prescribed in the constitution. It is co-extensive with the subject on which it acts and cannot be stopped subject on which it acts and cannot be stopped at the external boundary of a state, but must enter its interior and must be capable of authorizing the disposition of those articles which it introduces, so that they may become mingled with the common mass of property in the territory entered. A state may provide for the security of lives and property of its residents, but a matter confided exclusively to congress by the constitution is not within the jurisdiction of the police power of a state, unless placed there by congressional action. If particular subjects of interstate commerce do not require the application of a general or uniform system, the application of a general or uniform system, the states may legislate in regard to them with a yiew to the local needs or circumstances, until congress otherwise directs, but this power is not identical in its extent with the power to regulate commerce among the states. The court quotes the statements of the federalist in court quotes the statements of the federalist in support of this conclusion. That ardent spirits are subjects of interstate commerce is not de-nied, and the court then asks if a state, in the absence of congressional legislation, can pro-hibit their importation from abroad or from a sister state, or their sale by the importer. If importation cannot be prohibited without con-gressional authorization, the next question, the court says, is when does imported property so become a part of the common mass of prop-erty within a state as to be subject to its un-impeded control?

impeded control? CITING ANOTHER CASE. In Brown vs. Maryland it was laid down by a great magistrate who presided over the court for more than a third of a century (Chief Justice Marshall) that the point time when prohibition ceases and the power of the state begins, is not the instant when the article enters the country, but when the importer has so acted upon it that it has become incorporated and mixed up with the mass of property in the country, which happens when the original package is no longer such in his hands; that none of the evils which proceeded from the feebleness of the federal government contributed more to the great revolution which introduced the present system than the deep and general conviction that commerce ought to be regulated by congress, that the right to sell any article imported was an inseparable incident to the right to import it, and that the principles expounded in the case applied equally to importations from a sister state, as from a foreign country.

Although the precise question now before bition ceases and the power of the state begins

Although the precise question now before Atthough the precise question how before the court was not ruled upon in that case, the court says it thinks it was virtually involved in the Brown case, and also in the Bowman case, in which an act of the state of lowa, forbidding common carriers to bring intoxicating liquors into the state, without first being fur-nished with a certificate as prescribed in the act, was declared invalid, because essentially a regulation of commerce among the states.

THE RIGHT OF TRANSPORTATION. The opinion of the court in the Bowman case delivered by Justice Matthews, and the dis senting opinion, delivered by Justice Harlan, discussed the question in all its phases, and while the determination of whether the right of the transportation of an article of commerce from one state to another includes, by necessary implication, the right of the consignee to sell it in unbroken packages at the place where the transportation terminates, was in terms reserved; yet the argument of the majority conducts irresistibly to that con-clusion. This decision is quoted at length. "Whenever," says the opinion of the chief justice, "the law of a state amounts essentially justice, "the law of a state amounts essentially to the regulation of commerce, as it does; when it inhibits, directly or indirectly, the receipt of an imported commodity, or its disposition before it has ceased to become an article of trade between one state and another, it comes in conflict with the power which, in this particular, has been exclusively in the general government, and it is, therefore, void. Undoubtedly it is for the legislative branches of the state governments to determine what measures the state may properly adopt as appropriate or needful for the protection of public morals, life or safety, but the power to exclude, directly or indirectly, the lic morals, life or safety, but the power to exclude, directly or indirectly, the articles so situated, without congressional permission, is to concede to the majority of the people of a state, represented in the state legislature, the power to regulate commercial intercourse between the states by determining what shall be its subject. When that power was distinctly granted to be exercised by the people of the United States, represented in congress, and its possession by the latter was considered essential to that more perfect union which the constitution was adopted to create. Undoubtedly there is/difficulty in drawing the line beteewn the municipal powers of one gov-line beteewn the municipal powers of one government and the commercial powers of the other. But when that line is determined, accommodation to it without serious inconvenience may readily be found in frank and candid convertien for the great land. did co-operation for the general good."

The decision of the supreme court of Iowa is Justice Gray delivered a dissenting opinion in behalf of himself and Justices Harlan and Brewer. The dissenting opinion says that the protection and safety, the health, morals, good protection and safety, the health, morals, good order and general welfare of the people are the chief end of government. All statutes of a state must, of course, give way, so far as they are repugnant to the national constitution and laws. But an intention is not likely to be imputed to the framers of the constitution, or to the congress of the United States, to subordinate the protection, safety, health and morals of the people to the promotion of trade and commerce. Police power extends to the control and regulation of things which, when used in a lawful and proper manner, are the subject of property and commerce, and yet may be used so as to be injurious or dangerous to the public safety, public health, or, public morals. The consequence must be that an inhabitant of any state may, under pretext of interstate commerce, and without license or supervision of any public authority, carry, or send into, and sell in any or all the other states of the union, introducing liquor of whatever description in cases or kegs, or even in single bottles or flasks, despite any flegislation of those states on the subject, and although his own state should be the only one which had not enacted similar laws. We would require affirmative and explicit legislation on the part of congress to convince us that it contemplated or intended such result.

POLICE POWER OF A STATE. The dissent then quotes the "license cases," in which laws prohibiting the importation and sale of liquor in original barrels or packages was upheld.

Common experience has shown that the general and unrestricted use of intoxicating liquors tends to produce idleness, disorder, disease, pauperism and crime. The power regulating or prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors appropriately belong, as a branch of police power, to the legislature of the several states, and can be judiciously and effectively exercised by them alone, according to their views of public policy and local needs, and cannot practically, if it can constitutionally, be wielded by congress as a part of the national and uniform system.

The statutes in question were not enacted by the state of Iowa in exercise of its undoubted power to protect its inhabitants was upheld.

by the state of Iowa in exercise of its undoubted power to protect its inhabitants against the evils—physical, moral and social—attending the free use of intoxicating liquors. They are not aimed at interstate commerce. They have no relation to the movement of goods from one state to another, but operate only on intoxicating liquors within the territorial limits of the state. They include all such liquors without discrimination, and do not even mention where they are made or whence they come. They affect commerce much more remotely and indirectly than the laws of the state, the validity of which is unquestioned, authorizing the erection of bridges and dams across navigable waters within its limits which wholly obstruct the course of commerce and navigation; or than quarantine laws, which operate directly upon all ships laws, which operate directly upon all ships and merchandise coming into ports of the

If the statutes of a state, restricting or pro hibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within hibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within its territory are to be held inoperative and void as applied to liquors sent or brought from another state and sold by the importer in what are called original packages, notwithstanding it is not visited with supervisory power over matters of local administration, the responsibility is upon congress, so far as the regulation of interstate commerce is concerned, to remove the restriction upon the state in dealing with imported articles which have not been mingled with the common mass of property therein. Whatever our individual views may be as to the deleterious qualities of may be as to the deleterious qualities of particular articles, we cannot hold that any articles which congress recognizes as subjects of interstate commerce are not such, or that whatever are thus recognized, can be controlled by stocklown commission. controlled by state laws, amounting to regula-tions, while they retain that character, although, at the same time, if directly danger-ous to themselves, a state may take appropriate measures to guard against injury before it obtains complete jurisdiction over them. To concede to a state, the inference that congress intended that the law should remain as thereby ntended that the law should remain as thereby concede to a state, the inference that congress intended that the law should remain as thereby declared by this court, rather than to warrant the presumption that congress intended that commerce among the states should be free from indirect effect, such an exercise of police power for the public safety, as had been adjudged by that decision to be within the constitutional authority of the states.

A LICENSE DECISION.

The court by same vote reversed the decision of the supreme court of Michigan in the case of Henry Lyng, an agent for a Wisconsin livewery, who was fined for selling liquor without license. Lyng attacked the constitutionality of the law on the ground that it would compel agents for outside brewers to pay $300 a year license while brewers within the state could, under the manufacturers' license, sell at wholesale, after paying only sixty-five dollars annual license. He contended that this was practically a regulation of interstate commerce, and the court decides in his favor upon the authority of the Iowa case and those referred to in that opinion. The opinion rendered by the chief instice in this case concludes as the authority of the Iowa case and those referred to in that opinion. The opinion rendered by the chief justice in this case concludes as follows:

The same rule that applies to the sugar of Louisiana, the cotton of South Carolina, wines of California, hops of Washington, tobacco of Maryland and Connecticut, applies to all commodities in which the right of traffic exists, recognized by the laws of congress, the decisions of courts and the usages of the commercial world. It devolves on congress to indicate such exceptions as in its judgment wise discretion may demand under particular circumstances.

WATCHING THE EXPERIMENT.

Doctors and Reporters Waiting for Kemm-ler's Execution by Electricity. AUBURN, N. Y., April 28.—Kemmler's last AUBURN, N. Y., April 28.—Remmier's last Sunday on earth was spent in much the same way as the previous days of his year's life— if life it can be called—in solitary confinement. He never sees a living soul outside his two guards, his spiritual adviser and occasionally guards, his spiritual adviser and occasionally the warden's wife. He occupies his time be-tween meals in studying his pictorial Bible and writing his autograph on cards, of which he has dashed off a great many. Dr. Fell, a Buffalo scientist, with his patent resuscitating apparatus, has arrived, and is the guest of Warden Durston. He is here at the request of the warder to each that carrething sees. Warden Durston. He is here at the request of the warden to see that everything goes off smoothly. The doctor tried his patent on animals which were put to death by electricity in prison in January last, when the machinery was first tested. It failed at that time to resuscitate the subjects and went far towardjeon-vincing the electrical commission that death, and not mere suspended animation, was produced instantaneously. It is understood he will also try the apparatus on Kemmler after the latter has received 1,000 volts.

Warden Durston has yet to let fall the first inkling as to the precise day of his taking off.

Warden Durston has yet to let fall the first inkling as to the precise day of his taking off. It is generally believed Wednesday will be the day, but certainly no later than Thursday. It is also thought that the execution will take place at a very early hour in the morning, perhaps before daylight.

But these are mere surmises. New York city newspaper men are here in great force. The warden is unyielding as adamant in shutting out press reporters, but some of the doctors or guards at the execution may be prevailed upon to talk after it is all over.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, April 28.—Futures opened easier under a quieter report from Liverpool, but quickly rallied. The silver question again came to the front as a dominating influence and the bulls predicted that the price of silver will rise to sixty pence in London. There were also unfavorable crop accounts. Very low temperature and excessive rains gin the southwest, although today's advices are of clearing skies. The advance was most decidedjin September options, and the next crop generally showed much strength.

September touched 11.42 and prices then receded three to five points under sales to realize, and the close was a little unsettled in tone. At one time the early months and next crop were strong, while July and Angust were weak. Cotton in spot was 1.16 dearer and quiet.

Murder Near Edenton.

Murder Near Edenton.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Sunday morning, about 1 o'clock, a murder was committed at Edenton, which created considerable excitement. Dallas Baxter and Riddick Porter, colored, had some hot words about a load of wood at a restaurant. They were ordered out. As Baxter stepped out, Porter jumped at him with a knife, and chased him up the street, stabbing him at every step. Baxter fell dying. Porter ran for a wharf, but was captured. Baxter died in forty minutes. Porter was jalled.

Will Get the Advance.

PITTSBURG, April 28.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company today granted the demands of their employes for an advance, giving day conductors $2.75, and night conductors $2.90 a day. Brakemen will be paid $2.50 and night men $2.70. Ten hours constitute a day's work. This is the first to break in the railroad lines.

Four Hundred Houses Descried-Government Officers Instructed to Extend Aid to the Destitute.

DALLAS, Texas, April 28 .- About four hundred houses in the suburbs have been abandoned on account of the flood. Trinity river at this rise, was a few inches higher than that of 1886, which was the highest recorded within the memory of the oldest settlers. Large forces of men are hard at work repairing washouts on the Texas and Pacific, Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe, Missouri Pacific, Kansas and Texas, Texas Trunk and Oak Cliff Elevated

The water last night ran through the windows of the first floor of the Dallas elevator, and damaged a large amount of wheat. The St. Louis Press Brick company are heavy losers, as well as Allensworth & Pussey. Two thousand bales of cotton were soaked at the compress, foot of Lamar street, and the Dallas Brewing company will suffer considerably from inconvenience caused by the water.

The Eureka steam laundry has suspended operations, as the water is several feet deep in their buildings. Yesterday, as the mail was being transferred from one train to another on the Texas and Pacific, a pouch of registered mail slipped off the hand-car and sank in the swift current be fore it could be recovered. The damage by the flood in this city will amount to several thousand dollars.

THE SUFFERING PEOPLE. Washington, April 28.—Secretary Proctor has received several replies to his telegrams asking for information in regard to the extent of suffering in the overflowed districts of the south. The governor of Louisiana said that ten days' rations for 25,000 people should be sent to New Orleans for distribution throughout the state. The governor of Mississippi said there are probably 20,000 persons in that state needing assistance, and the governor of Arkansas said that 500 people in Phillips counts and a considerable number in Desha county are in great need of relief. Lieutenant James L. Wilson, Fourth artillery, at Jackson barracks, Miss., has been directed to report to Captain Weston, acting quartermaster at New Orleans, for temporary duty in connection with the relief of the flood sufferers, and Major-General Howard, at New York has been directed to detail such other ssistants as may be required TO ISSUE RATIONS. Captain Weston has been instructed to use his own discretion in regard to the issue of green shoulders and commeal instead of bacon and flour, and to do at once all he can for the relief of all who need it. He has been given ample power in the matter of transportation and the employment of assistants.

FIVE PERSONS DROWNED. NEW ORLEANS, April 28.—The steam gin and saw mill of Charles Lawrence, situated in Sparkly county, three miles from Rolling Fork, Miss., burned Saturday night. The loss is small. Fifty or sixty of Lawrence's tenants were quartered in the gin, and in their efforts to escape from the flames seven were drowned. The building was surrounded by water seven feet deep. They had taken refuge there from the overflow, and it is stated their carelessness caused the fire. The report that several lives have been lost in the vicinity of the Lobdel disaster has been confirmed. A family named

Walton, numbering five persons, drowned. STOPPING THE LEAKS.

Laborers Dropping Sacks Into the Crevasses in the Levees.

NEW ORLEANS, April 28 .- A Times-Demoa decline of one inch in the past four hours. The levees are all holding well. Backwater is about on a stand, and it is not believed that over fifteen per cent of cultivated land in this parish (Tensas) is under water. The weather is clear and cold.

A special to the Daily States from Baton Rouge says: The relief boat "Dacotah" laid at Martinez crevasse all last night. The break is virtually closed. Laborers on the "Dacotah," together with other hands, began sacking at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Nearly one hundred thousand sacks were dropped in front of the cribwork, and at 6 o'clock the back-water had fallen three feet. At intervals the water would get the best of the workmen and rush through the small aperture with lightning-like speed, cutting a deep channel under the cribbing. Such places were dangerous, and whenever they occurred the entire force would be concentrated on the danger point and hundreds of sacks dropped into the

THE BREAK CLOSED. This morning the crevasse is barely leaking, but there is not a sufficiency of sacks. The "Dacotah" came up to Baton Rouge for another load of sacks, arriving here at 11 o'clock. James D. Houston, who has been at Martinez ever since the break, authorizes me to say that had it not been for the timely aid of the "Dacotah" the Martinez crevasse would not now have been closed. The relief boat made two trips from the capital to the break, carrying nearly 50,000 sacks. Having these at hand enabled the workmen to use them at the proper moment to protect the crib work and proper moment to protect the crib work and prevent its washing out.

Mr. Houston also stated that the credit for the successful fight against the crevasse was due to William Cummings, roadmaster of the Valley road. He developed all plans and left it to Mr. Houston and others to see that they were carried out. General Manager Harahan, of the Mississippi Valley railroad, is on the scene, and will remain until the danger is over.

Will Clark, at whose place the Lobdell levee broke, arrived from that place this morning. He stated that the water was still rushing through with terrible velocity, but as soon as the material arrived an attempt would be made to close the break.

The river is steadily declining and ail fear of further breaks are gone.

A Wild Train Dashes Into the Depot-Several Passengers Mangled. STAUNTON, Va., April 28.—This morning about 3 o'clock a fearful railroad wreck occurred at the Staunton, Chesapeake and Ohic station. A vestibule train, due here from the west at 1 o'clock, was two hours late. About 3 o'clock it came whirling on at a speed of seventy miles an hour, the engine having the appearance of a sheet of fire. A number of persons were on the station platform, and had barely time to escape. As the train reached the passenger station, the rear sleeper careened, striking the platform, tearing away the iron posts and demolishing the whole platform structure. It struck the Eastern baggage house, fifty rods from the station—a new brick house, fifty rods from the station—a new brick building—crushing in its front and wrecking the building. The rear sleeper then jumped the track and turned over on its side a few feet from the track, shattering the car into fragments. There were a number of passengers in the sleeper, among them the "Pearl of Pekin" troupe on their way from Cincinnati to New York.

RESCUING THE UNFORTUNATES.

The city fire alarm was sounded; the first companies reported instantly and went to work at the wreck, assisted by many citizens, to rescue the passengers from their imprisonment.

One person was killed—Miss Myrtle Knox, of Kansas City, one of the opera troupe. She was fearfully mangled. One leg was cut off below the knee, her left arm broken, and right shoulder dislocated. A piece of wood was buried in her thigh, cutting an artery, causing death from bleeding in a few moments, and before surgical aid could be summoned.

Edward Stevens, shoulder sprained. Miss Bertha Fisher, concussion of the spine and contusion of the abdomen; considered and contusion of the abdonee; considered serious.

Lewis Harrison, scalp wound.

Miss Jane Dunham, sprained ankle.

All the injured belong to the "Pearl of Pekin" troupe, except Mr. Kirkpatrick.

There were six coaches, two of which were sleepers. No one was injured except those in the rear sleeper. The engine and other cars rushed on for a mile, when the engineer, on an up-grade, got control of the engine. The accident was caused by the brake-rod falling, throwing the ballast among the air-brake connections, rendering the brakes useless and causing the engineer to lose control of his train, The wounded were taken to the Virginia hotel where they are being well cared for. The body of Miss Knox has been sent to an undertaker to be embalmed.

Jumped Once Too Often.

OPELIKA, Ala., April 28.—[Special.]—A serious accident happened to Mr. J. M. Johnson, of this place, today. From what can be learned, Mr. Johnson has been in the habit of riding out as far as the train goes near his residence on the Columbas and Western train, and then jumping off. This evening, he attempted to do the same thing, but, as the train ran much faster than usual, he was thrown very violently to the ground, and received very serious injuries, dislocating his shoulder and knocking a very large hole in the back of his head. Kind friends picked him up, when he was found to be unconscious. At this hour, he is rest; exeasy.

The plant, a Taylor Hydraulic Compress, guaranteed to compressively bales of cotton an horal sixty bales of cotton an hour, has been bought, and only awaits being put in position. An application for a charter will be published in the Quitman Press this week. A prominent cotton house, that buys largely for export, is connected with the company, and this fact alone is a guarantee of success. Quitman now receives 12,000 bales of cotton, and the new industry will be a potent factor in increasing these figures. This new enterprise is one of the levers by means of which Quitman is elevating herself to the hill country of undisputed success.

The Dangers of Electricity.

THE LEE STATUE.

THE GREAT MONUMENT TO SOUTH-ERN BRAVERY The Statue to Arrive in New York on the 30th

-Preparations for Unveiling. RICHMOND, Va., April 28 .- [Special.]-The

Lee statue, which is to be unveiled here May 29th, is expected to reach New York on Wednesday next, the 30th instant. It was shipped from Havre April 13th, on the steame Othello, which, though a slow going vessel, should make the trip in seventeen days, provided it has fairly good seas.

SHIPPING THE STATUE. The statue, each of the eight pieces of which is packed in a separate box, will be brought to Richmond by rail. The cost of transportation over the Pennsylvania road will be merely nominal, and the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac road will make charge. The statue will be off the train at or near Elba station, which is very near the monument grounds, and the parts will be hauled to the grounds on wagons drawn either by horses or persons. The apparatus for hoisting the horse and rider will probably be borrowed from the Norfolk navy yard, as was the case when the Washington statue was placed in position on the capitol square. That work of art came to Richmond by steamer, and being loaded on an immense wagon was drawn up Main street by several hundred citizens, who willingly volun teered their services.

PUTTING HORSE AND RIDER IN PLACE. The parts of the horse and rider will be put together before they are elevated to the eminence on which they will rest. This work will be looked after by Mr. C. P. E. Burgroyn, the supervising engineer, who had charge of the erection of the pedestal and who per-sonally directed the packing of the eight pieces in Paris. Mr. Burgroyn has not yet sailed for home, but will do so in a few

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE UNVEILING. The arrangements for the unveiling are rapdly assuming practical shape, and most of the details will soon be perfected. The committees are all actively engaged in the work of their respective departments, and it is their in-tention that the ceremonies shall be worthy of the august occasion. It is thought that they will draw here the largest number of representative men, officers and privates of the confederate army seen in Richmond since the surrender. In making the arrangements the Lee Monument association has the aid of Lee Camp, Confederate Vcterans. Secretary Ellett, of the general invitation committee, is daily in receipt of many letters from all parts of the country, especially the south, and southwest, which give assurance that there will be an immense assembling of veter-ans who fought under the leadership of the man whose memory they meet to honor. Thou-sands of others are also making inquiries as to transportation, accommodations, etc

All of the visiting military, with the possible exception of the Fifth Maryland regiment, which has been tendered the use of the armory, will be quartered in the exposition buildings or camped on the grounds. Several commands have expressed a desire to camp. These will probably remain here a few days. The veterans will all be provided quarters down town, and the committees hope to be able to feed both. This will be done unless there is lack of funds, and contributions have not poured in very abundantly.

TALLAPOOSA'S GREAT CLAM BAKE. The Sale of Lots Brings Good Prices-To Be

Resumed Today. TALLAPOOSA, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]— The clam bake and land sale at Tallapoosa was a grand success.

Owing to the delays of the train, the sale did not start as early as expected. There were small saies, but bargains to the buyers ruled the day up to noon, when the sale closed for refreshments.

The crowd quickly gathered around the which contained the stewing pile of long and round clams, lobsters, crabs and vegetables, which soon began to disappear down the throats of the people. Soon nothing but rem-nants remained, and the people followed the auctioneer to the stand where lots quickly changed hands. Conservative prices were the rule, ranging from $2.50 to $65 per front foot, aggregating $40,000 at the lose of the day.

One of Atlanta's prominent citizens was so well pleased with the splendid city in the woods of old Haralson county that he bid off thirty lots today.

The sale will continue domorrow, the 29th.
A special excursion train will leave the union depot at 8 a. m., to return at 6 p. m., at the nominal price of $1 for the round trip.

An Enthusiastic Crowd Makes Business Lively.

ATTALLA, Ala., April 28.—[Special.]—The first day's sale of city lots by the Attalla Iron and Steel company took place today, under most favorable circumstances.

When the auctioneer made the last call, after two hours of selling, the net sales footed up eighty-five thousand dollars.

The special trains from Birmingham and Chattanooga did not arrive until about 11 o'clock. They were crowded with people, and the other regular trains from the north and Anniston brought annother addition, so that by the hour of sale, 2 o'clock in whe afternoon, some thousand or more persons stood in front of the company's office, waiting for a chance to make the first bid.

Colonel B. T. Walsh made a brief and pointed address on the resources of Attalla. He was followed by the president of the company, D. J. O'Connell, of Chattanooga, and Colonel Narooney, of Mew Orleans. Then the sale began in earnest, with steady buying until the close.

Jones Meetings.

Charlotte, N. C., April 28.—[Special.]—
The Associated Press dispatch sent out from here last night about Rev. Sam Jones apologizing for remarks of his in reference to the Mecklenburg declaration of independence, and printed in The Constitution today, is altogether misleading. The indignation among old citizens was confined to a very few, and so far as the apologizing is concerned. the people far as the apologizing is concerned, the people of Charlotte generally regard it as one of the evangelist's last jokes. The meetings here are largely attended, and today five hundred penitents went forward for

THEY DON'T MIND THE RAIN.

At 9 o'clock the rooms of the Travelers' association at Bull and Congress streets were jammed with members. A drizzling rain began to fall, but that did not deter the persistent drummers. They told their bands to play, and with Cobb's band heading the procession, and the Tennille band half way down the line, they started off, on their parade. The marshal and his assistants rode on horseback. The executive committee, the chairman and secretary of merchants; Week, the president and vice-president of the Savannah branch of the Southern Travelers' association rode in carriages. Four abreast the drummer marched down Congress to Jefferson, to Bay, to Drayton, to Broughton, to Jefferson, to Liberty, to Drayton, to South Broad and thence to the headquarters in the Bazar building at South Broad and Whitaker.

THEY KEPT THE ATTENDANTS BUSY. A counter extends all the way along the north side of the building, and the attendants behind it were kept busy the greater part of the time. By 11 o'clock several hundred had assembled at the headquarters to listen to the address of welcome by Judge Adams. He was introduced by Hon. A. P. Adams. Judge Adams's speech was cheered to the echo, and there were cries for Judge Falligant. His honor shook his head, and the crowd on the platform melted away. From tha hour on there was nothing to do except to have a good time until 4 o'clock this afternoon. Everybody carried out that part of the programme to the letter.

The soldiers turned out this afternoon, and tonight there was a free concert in the park, and a pyrotechnic display.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: Please allow me through your columns to express my gratitude to Dr. Evans, the great magnetic physician, who is now practicing at 34 N. Forsyth street. For zeven years I had been a complete cripple with paralysis of my right side. I could walk but little, and could not raise my arm to my head. I applied to Dr. Evans, when he was practicing here eight years ago, who cured me, and I have remained a well man ever since. I know scores of others whom he cured during his former visit to Atlanta. My wife had been as helpless as a babe for one year. Could not even turn herself in bed or sit unsupported when assisted to that position during all that period, from female weakness, nervousex-haustion, displacement and paralysis. Dr. Evans visited her six weeks ago and gave her a magnetic treatment, which so far restored her that she arose from her bed the next morning and walked around the room, and in a few days she was able to take a carriage and visit him, is now quite a well woman, requiring only a little more time to build up her wasted and exhausted system, and we would be pleased to have anyone who so desires to call on us and learn for themselves the apparent miracle Dr. Evans has wrought on her.

A CHINESE VETERAN.

DEAN-PSE-ZEH A MEMBER OF GEN-ERAL FORREST'S CAVALRY.

He Went Back to China in '68, and Returned to This Country Three Months Ago— He Meets His Old Comrades.

"Excuse me; isn't this private Williams?"

"Of Forrest's cavalry?"

And a very unusual sight was witnessed at the Kimball house corner, on Pryor street. It isn't such a rare thing for two old ex-confedgrate comrades to meet after the years of separation and throw their arms around each other and weep, but that meeting of two veterans yesterday was a strange one.

One of them was a Chinaman. The other was the veteran emigrant agent, Peg Leg Williams.

Both were members of Forrest's cavalry. The Chinaman was dressed in the native postume: a blue silk blouse, loose trousers, black silk sandan with thick cork soles, and black silk skull cap, with a long queue, reach-ing almost to his heels.

He is a typical Chinaman, physically, except that, unlike most of his countrymen seen here, he is large and solidly built, and moves like an athlete.

His face is noticeably mobile and expressive. and particularly so in contrast with the dull, stolid expression of the laundrymen. He peaks grammatical English, and only slightly marked by the native guttural brogue. "Well, well, well," said Peg. as they unlocked arms and stood shaking hands, "you're the last man I ever knew that I expected to see here. What do you call yourself now?"

"I'm glad to see you," said the other. "I

"And what are you doing here?" 'I'm a delegate from China to the Metho dist conference in St. Louis. After that I'm poing to New York for a post-graduate course

Then the two walked off together down Wall street, to Peg's office in the Brown build-Everybody they passed-men, women and children-stopped to look back at the unusual sight of a white man and a Chinaman walking arm-in-arm like two affectionate

ABOUT THE CHINESE VETERAN. Dr. C. K Marshall, the Chinaman, came to this country about two years before the war. He volunteered in the confederate service early in the war, and Peg Williams—himself a gallant old cavalryman-is witness to the fact that the Chinaman was one of the finest soldiers in the regiment. "I think I went in just for the fun of the thing," he said, replying to the question. " was a boy then. But perhaps I shouldn't talk about war now. I'm through with fighting, and am back here for peace."

After the fall of Fort Donelson the Chinaman saw little active service, though always a loval confederate and "willing to fight." He tells some interesting anecdotes of his war experience. Peg tells some more on him, and all creditable to the foreigner's courage "Did you wear that Chinese dress during the war?" he was asked yesterday.

"Oh no," he laughed, "I dressed like the

A NATIVE MISSIONARY. Dr. Marshall-that's an odd name for a Chinaman, but he prefers to be called by it-went back to China in '68 a Methodist.

He preaches every Sunday now, and has been doing so for years now, in Foo-Chow. He is acquainted with all the missionaries in this city, and they all value him as a true Christian and a fine missionary. To the Methodists, of course, he is especially valuable.

"I was never in Atlanta before," he said yesterday, "but there are several missionaries there from Georgia state-more, it seems, than from any other state-and I have heard them speak of it often."

He called yesterday upon Miss Muse, of Atlanta, who recently returned from a mission in

AN ALLOPATHIC PHYSICIAN. About six years ago Dr. Marshall graduated from the medical college in Foo-Chow, and has been a practicing physician ever since. He does about all the American and English practice there, and has a very large following amongst the natives. He is going to New York to make a special study of skin and ear diseases and, as he puts it, "to see many operations performed."

He reads all the leading medical journals of this country and Europe, and is pronouncedly allopathic in his views.
"I must take sides," he explains. "I was in the south, and knew we were right. So I am Christian. So I am an allopathic physician."

Just now Dr. Marshall is lecturing on the mission work in China. He preached Sunday night at Marietta, and last night at the First hodist church.

He goes from here to Nashville. The Lecture Last Night.

At 8 o'clock there was a large audience assembled at the First Methodist church to hear Rev. Dzan-Pee-Zeh—otherwise known as Dr. C. K. Marshall—in a sermon on practical Christianic.

Christianity.

Rev. Dr. H. C. Morrison introduced the distinguished stranger, and seldom has a more cultivated audience listened to a more cultured

Rev. Mr. Marshall is a Chinaman, native Rev. Mr. Marshall is a Chinaman, native born, and appeared in the full dress of a mandarine, but his commanding presence and dignified bearing gained the sympathy of the large audience even before he opened his lips.

When he began his address in favor of the Chinese missions, he held his audience spellbound. He told of the work of the missionaries in China, and illustrated the practical benefits derived from their labors, by anecdote and incident that won the sympathies of his heavers.

One of the incidents which we have

One of the incidents which made a most forcible impression was where a Chinese soldier had been badly wounded in battle. He was taken off the guiboat, where he was wounded, and carried to the Christian hospital. After he had slightly recovered, he remarked: "I came near drive force."

"I came near dying from my wounds on the back, and after I was hurt my captain paid no further attention to me. Why is it that you care for me?"

"Because we want to restore John home and people."
"Well, how is it that you, who do not know me, do more for me than my own people, who do know me?"
"It is our religion," replied the missionary."
"The religion of the Lord Jesus Christ. Will you not accept it?" ecause we want to restore you to your

You not accept it?"
"Well," said he, "I do not know about that.
Thave never heard of any other religion than our own."

The preacher went on to relate how, day after day, he had been treated by the missionaries in charge of the hospital, until he got able to be about. He then began to realize the unselfish parity and beauty of the Christian realigion, and by the time he was able to walk he had determined to embrace the faith of Christ, and went away rejoicing, determined to preach the gospel to his brethren in the tities and provinces.

The preacher went on to illustrate how much the great empire of China was in need of the Christianizing influence. He showed up the fallacy of the Chinese being an unedutated and inferior race, and told how the labors of Rev. Dr. Young J. Allen and Miss Laura Haygood had been crowned with success in the noble work to which they have devoted themselves. He spoke of the prevalent idea that the missionary had a very easy time of it, whereas, the missionary in Shanghai, Soochow and outlying posts was cut off from every enjoyment.

"It, will take two or three years." oyment.
"It, will take two or three years," said he, "for a missionary to learn the language. In the meantime they are cut off from all social intercourse, with only a few books and periodicals to read at rare occasions. Their lot is a hard one."

He went on to tell about how a conductor on the Chattanooga, Rome and Carrollton road accosted him, and questioned him as to the work of the missionaries in foreign countries, advancing the idea that there was more need of home missionaries than of preachers to go about and convert the of preachers to go about and convert the

His reply was logical.

Dr. Marshall closed his address with a pretty little hit on the vanity of Americans. He held up a small silken slipper, three and one-half inches long, and said that that was a sample of the shoes worn by Chinese ladies.

"I have heard the little children cry aloud," said he, "when the cruel moulds were put on their little feet, but their mothers whipped them and forced them to keep them on their tiny feet. The custom was carried into China when the Tartars conquered the country about 300 years ago. The Tartar women had large feet, and were able to assist their lords in the battlefield. ago. The Tartar women had large lees, and were able to assist their lords in the battlefield, and the conquerors determined to cripple the Chinese women by enacting a law that they should bind their fact in those small shops."

feet in those small shoes."

He then went on to tell how some Europea ladies had once pitied the Chinese lad their dwarfed feet, and he had retorted:

"Their small feet are no more to be deplored than the small waists of the European ladies." The sermon was most elegantly delivered, and listened to with the most devout attention by the large audience.

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 29, 1890.

A Tariff Blunder.

The new tariff bill is loaded with blunders. At a time when there is a general demand for a judicious readjustment of duties in the interest of genuine economical reform the republican tariff tinkers have committed themselves to protection per se in its worst shape.

It is proposed to increase the duties on pocket and table cutlery, razors, butcher knives, scissors, guns, etc., although the present rate of thirty-five per cent is certainly ample not only for revenue purposes, but for the protection of home industries. The proposed rate in the bill is from eighty to one hundred per cent on guns, and from sixtyfive to one hundred and thirty-two per cent

The only just tariff system is one that will raise enough revenue for the economical administration of the government, and at the same time afford incidental protection for our home industries against the cheap labor of Europe. The duties which we have quoted from the republican tariff bill are on an altogether different line. They go beyond the proper scope of revenue, and are in the interest of protection per se. These duties are so high that in some instances they will be not only protective but absolutely prohibitory, as they will shut out grades and patterns of goods not made in this country.

Let us take the single item of guns. The bill will not affect the rich man who is able to purchase a high grade gun, because this class is almost exclusively of American make. It strikes the poor man who is not able to pay thirty dollars or more for a gun, and it will make it impossible for many a poor fellow to buy one. We manufacture no guns that will take the place of the cheap imported article, and the proposed tariff will necessarily oppress the poor, and cut off the trade

Our government is not in need of this extra money; the manufacturers are not entitled to it: it belongs to the people, and nothing can justify the attempt to take it out of their pockets to enrich a few industrial

We have not had in recent years a more plaring instance of a tariff for protection alone than we have in this proposed bill. It departs from the proper limits of a revenue measure, with the incidental protection nat nrally extended to home industries, and promises to give a few favored manufacturers a monopoly at the expense of the people.

There can be no general prosperity under a system that is in the interest of the classes and against the masses. When protection is the chief end of a tariff it is very like robbery. Its only rightful place in our system of political economy is when it incidentally follows the raising of a necessary revenue. This has always been the sound democratic doctrine, and it is time for it to be accepted as the American doctrine.

He Should Go to Bed. A Mr. Behrman, who lives in Montgomery, is anxious to have the medical men examine him after he is dead, but his sympmliar that his want to know more about him while he is living.

Mr. Behrman is past middle age. He fought in the confederate army, and is at present engaged in the undertaking business. He never-felt hungry, thirsty or sleepy in his life. He sometimes goes sixteen days without food, but generally eats once a day. Once he went seven months without more than an hour's sleep. In forty years he has never swallowed a glass of

After studying himself for forty years or so, Mr. Behrman has come to the conclusion that he is not well. He suspects that his heart, liver and brain must be out of order, and he wants the doctors to look into the matter after his death.

We have our doubts about this phenomenon. The best thing for him to do is to go to bed. He is liable in an absent-minded fit to walk about a year at a time without eating or drinking or sleeping, and such conduct is too uncanny for a well-regulated community to stand.

What Next?

Mr. H. A. H. Dunsford has written a pamphlet which is made the subject of extended comment in the Pall-Mall Gazette. In this pamphlet Mr. Dunsford advances a novel idea by which he thinks the arctic region can be made habitable, the northwest passage opened and North Atlantic storms effectually stopped.

The idea is-to blow up the north pole with dynamite. The writer thinks the idea is entirely feasible, that the ice, not being of very great thickness, would readily yield to our powerful explosives, which are just as effective when frozen as they are under other conditions, and would make a rent in the ice wall of the north, which would send the blocked waters rushing through, and thus solve the arctic problem.

Mr. Dunford's plan is to traverse the ice of the channel, which will be smooth after the first snowfall, with sledges or dog-trains, and to lay surface or submerged mines of dynamite over any desired length of section. Then, he thinks, the ice can be broken up instantaneously, as soon as the winter is over. He grows enthusiastic over the adwantages which would be gained if the present difficulties could be overcome in this way - the rendering habitable of the shores of the Arctic; the growth there of the civilized communities; a direct route to the Pacific coasts of America and Asia; there would then be lands, he says, within easy ch of Great Britain-lands which could colonized; fisheries of incalculable value; a great arctic trade, and perhaps, total imas the cause of storms is said to be the difference in temperature between the poles and the tropics. Take the ice cup from the north pole, says this writer, and the warm streams, instead of becoming chilled, as at present, would flow past the pole and southward, as warm streams still keep the ice from re-forming, and do away with the cold of the arctic regions altogether. These are fine theories, and the scheme is an ambitious, if not a practicable one. But who knows what might result from it? Man has been knocking for entrance at the frozen gates of the poles for centuries; and it is unreasonable to suppose that, with all the invincible weapons of science at his command, the chill silence of the arctic solitudes will never be broken, and their secrets remain an eternal mystery?

A Northern Man Speaks Out.

We desire to call the attention of the rancorous northern politicians to the letter of Mr. George F. Bolles, of Atlanta, to Speaker Reed, printed elsewhere. Mr. Bolles is a northern man who came to the south from Connecticut after the war, bringing with him, no doubt, the prejudices that a majority of northern people seem to have against the south—prejudices that are based on a lack of information.

Mr. Bolles is now identified with the interests of Atlanta, but when he first came to the south, his business carried him into every nook and corner of this section. He has been in every southern state, not once, but time and again, and he has had ample opportunity to study the situation from every point of view, and to familiarize himself with every detail and ramification thereof.

It is no wonder, therefore, that he is filled with indignation at the slanderous aspersions which Mr. Reed casts on this section, or that he is moved to file a vigorous protest against the partisan rancor displayed by the republican speaker of the house.

The attitude of Speaker Reed and the re publican leaders is not only aggravating but discouraging. For the sake of making a display of friendship for the negro-a friendship which everybody knows they do not feel-they are willing to sacrifice the best interests of both whites and blacks by the renewal of a political crusade that can only result in disorganizing business at the south and creating confusion in every direction. Federal control of elections in the south has already been tried by the republicans and without avail. All that was accomplished by it was to defeat the intentions of the reconstructionists, and delay the advancement of the blacks.

The results of the war gave the negroes their freedom and the ballot. All that the republican party has ever given them is in the nature of a heritage of prejudice that has stood mightily in the way of their progress and development. All that it can give them through the medium of partisan politics is a renewal and revival of the race issue which time has somewhat allayed.

Mr. Bolles represents the views of those northern men in the south who are familiar with every phase of the negro problem, and, under the circumstances, his indignation is natural. He sees in the attitude of Mr. Reed and the partisan republicans an intention that cannot be properly appreciated by the average northern man who knows nothing of the situation here. Mr. Bolles very clearly perceives that the upshot of partisan legislation will be a disorganization of business and business enterprises that must inevitably cripple prosperity here and seriously affect the north.

If the northern people-the conservative business men-are anxious for that sort of thing, all that they have to do is to remain silent while the great and good Quay, assisted by Reed, Chandler and other republicans, carry out their programme of sectional legislation. The conspirators will accept this silence as an invitation to go on.

Two Evangelists In Hot Water. Sam Jones, at Charlotte, N. C., and Joe nes at Coffeeville. Miss stirred up the people, the other day, and then got stirred up themselves.

It is difficult to understand how a man of Sam Jones's intelligence could get up before a North Carolina congregation and denounce the Mecklenburg declaration of independence as a myth founded upon a drunken frolic. That sort of talk will not be permitted in the old north state. The people of Mecklenburg renounced their allegiance to the crown and publicly declared their independence more than a year before the Philadelphia declaration was signed. This fact is in the histories and cyclopedias, and Mr. Jones ought to have known it. If he did not know anything about the matter he should have let it alone. But he has made an explanation, and if the North Carolinians' are satisfied it is all right. Joe Jones's break at Coffeeville deserves a passing mention. The Gazette of that place charged the evangelist with saving that whiskey caused the death of the late Mr. Randall. The newspaper expressed the opinion that Randall dead was better than any living man who abused him. This caused Jones's congregation to pass resolutions de claring their confidence in the preacher, and condemning the article as cruel and unjust. The alleged objectionable language was not denied. If Joe Jones talked about the dead states man in the fashion reported in the Gazette he did a mean and cruel thing, and a string of resolutions in his favor will not help him

It is possible that the newspaper men and others reported the two Joneses incorrectly. Let us hope that this is the case. The two evangelists are bright and clever. Surely they have sense and decency enough not to go charging around the country defaming dead men and denying the common facts of

A Grand Naval Show.

New York lost the world's fair, but the loss is not without its consolations—the grandest spectacle of all remains for her and she will have a full share of national glory in 1893. At that time the navies of the world will be on dress parade in her magnificent harbor, where there will be a great in ternational marine review in honor of Columbus and the discovery of America.

The plan was originated by Senor Castelar the famous Spanish statesman. His idea was for the vessels of the old world to meet at Genoa, thence sailing to the port of Palos from which point Columbus sailed on his voyage of discovery, then to touch at the island of San Salvador, sailing on to Ha ton Roads, as a point of rendezvous befor the final review in New York harbor.

Secretary Tracy has expressed himself as seing in favor of it, and New York is enthusiastic. It will be the grandest naval show the world has ever witnessed—a booming of guns, a blending of flags and a majestic file of decorated ships passing in splendid and beautiful review on the gaily garlanded

But the best thing of all is the statemen of Secretary Tracy that the United States will be "on deck," so to speak, with the rest of them; that we will have a navy at that time which will reflect credit on the country shins that will be able to hold their own with the war-ships of the world; in fact, we are to have a genuine navy, which will not be laughed to sea.

If this great event takes place-and it is probable that it will—it will be a great thing for New York and the United States. She may well congratulate herself on the prospect; she will have a show, after all, which will attract as much, if not more, attention than the big circus at Chicago. New York is bound to get even.

A Negro Exposition.

Rev. J. C. Price, a teacher in charge of negro school at Salisbury, N. C., has been in Boston for the purpose of arranging for an exhibition to be held in that city next year. The purpose of the exhibition is to illustrate the progress the negro has made since emancipation.

It is thought that the colored men who are at the head of the enterprise will have no difficulty whatever in securing the active aid and sympathy of the influential men of Boston. They will also have the aid and sympathy of the southern people, who are anxious that the people of the north shall be made eye-witnesses of the tremendous progress that has been made by the negroes of the south since the war.

The display that will be made at the proposed exhibition in all departments of industry will open the eyes of northerners who have been pinning their faith to the partisan republican statements in regard to the condition and treatment at the south. The truth of the matter is that while such men as Hoar and Lodge, of Massachusetts, have been trying to stir up strife between the races in this section, and while the Bill Chandlers have been prejudicing the northern mind with lies and slanders, the negroes have been at work bettering their condition, accumulating property, and attending to their business.

The exposition to be held in Boston, if it be properly worked up, will demonstrate this fact and more. It will convince the people of the north, who are prejudiced through lack of information, that no class of citizens could prosper as the negroes have prospered if the republican charges against the whites of the south are true. The republican speakers and organs complain that the negroes are not advancing rapidly enough. Rev. J. C. Price, on the other hand, declared in his Boston speech that the progress of the race has been marvelous.

To show the lack of information that exists at the north in regard to southern matters, we may refer to a statement in the Springfield Republican. Alluding to the projected exhibition and to the progress of the negro, the Republican says: contraband in 1864, he now owns $20,000,-000 in taxable property." This is a stupendous mistake. In the state of Georgia alone the negroes pay taxes on $10,000,000 of property. The real value of their property in this state may be fairly estimated at $20,000,000 In the whole south the value of the property accumulated by the negroes cannot fall very far short of $100,000,000.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Now that Stanley is in London, it is to be hoped that the papers will get a good picture of him. The artists lately have shown him up in every shape, fat and thin, smiling and scowling, white-haired and black-haired, a giant and a dwarf, straight-legged and bow-legged, a wall-eyed tramp and a new Apollo. People would like to knew how the man really looks.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Noble Northener's Sentiments. BIG FORT PRAIRIE, Ill., April 25, 1890.—Editor of Constitution: I have been a reader of your paper but a short time, but am well pleased with it and think it ought to have a much larger circulation among the northern people, especially the old sol-diers that know how to appreciate bravery and ad-mire it when displayed by those that met them in deadly conflict. Nearly all the old soldiers that faced the southern courage in the deadly strife admire the military ability shown by both officers and private soldiers that admire the military ability shown by both officers and private soldiers that wore the gray and displayed such undinching courage on many hotly contested battle fields.

It was my lot to be in command of a regiment in the battles in front of Richmond under General McClellan, and at Fair Oaks I was in General Casey's division supporting Regan's and Bates's batteries on the Williamsburg road, and thought at sey's division supporting Regan's and Bates's batteries on the Williamsburg road, and thought at that time that I never saw a grander sight or more courage displayed than was shown. I think by General Featherston's brigade when he made those repeated charges on Bates's battery that my regiment was supporting, and the ground in front of our little ditches showed with what bravery and determination those charges were made. I think General Featherston admitted in his report a loss of six hundred and eightynine men, but finally succeeded in capturing Bates's battery, and sending us to the rear on the double-quick after losing nearly one-third of my own men. Such old soldiers, but citizens now, will honor any military ability, whether shown by those that were the blue or gray, and would be glad to meet each other as citizens or ex-soldiers regardless of which side they fought on. I think if more of the papers published in the southern states were circulated among the northern citizens it would do much to allay that prejudice that still exists in the breasts of many caused by memory of sad events and loss of friends caused by that bravery all old soldiers so much admire.

Late colonel Eighty-fifth regiment New York

A Northern Man to Speaker Reed. ATLANTA, Ga., April 28, 1890.—Hon. T. B. Reed: Dear Sir—I read in THE CONSTITUTION your fecent partisan Pittsburg speech, and dropping my paper, ponder as to whether I should give way to my aroused indignation and make reply, or believe it by silence. Your course will be the ultinate destruction, and not the "continued victory we must have," for your party that you talk about.
My indignation, however, will not down, and the first thought that comes to my mind is to be-seech you for the sake of humanity, for the sake of the black race, for the sake of our common country, for the sake of my people up in Connec-ticut, for the sake of my people here in the south, both northern and southern born, to aold your "silence" in the future as you say you have in the past, and thereby let the pe ntinue to work out their salvat God! will continue to do, whether your partisan tongue continues to wag about the south or not.

Mr. Speaker, after, reading, will you be taught a lesson from it, in the preamble herewith inclosed of our northern society. Only a few days ago, without one dissenting voice was this preamble indorsed and adopted by a large body of northern men, representing every section, and now residents in the south, some of whom have had long experience in this favored land.

What a commenting on your Pittsburg speech, and what positive proof that the "people" are moving and that partisan politicians of your stamp must get out of the way!

We offer no discussion of the "fundamental principles" prated about in your recent speech, only to say that your wild talk of federal bayonet elections will never be, nor, if a reality, could it be, a solution of gyour fundastamp must get out of the way!
We offer no discussion

Therefore, not only yourself, Mr. Reed, but let all who follow your steps or teachings, cease to create a sentiment or manufacture capital over the southern ballot, for grant, if need be, the southern ballot, for grant, if need be, what you charge concerning it. Tell me why you seek this promised land to sow seeds of discord when the world knows you have millions of purchasable votes in every state of the north, and that millions of money are poured out to buy them—a far greater crime to the nation and tenfold more demoralizing to the people and ballot than is the condition of things in the south.

Too late! too late, Mr. Speaker Reed, to longer deceive the masses of our intelligent thinking people, north or south, as to any injustice or crime er oveur southern ballot. Too late for your political schemes, for the north and south are alike mourning!

My yankee brothers from Connecticut are coming, and from all sections are they combing, and out of every one hundred ninety come over to our side.

The writer would gladly invite you to come with the ever-increasing throng. Perhaps you would go back wiser, your views broadened, and, with a charity akin to that of the great apostle of your party. Lincoln, be better able to legislate for our whole country and better fitted for the position you occupy before the nation. Truly, ard commercial speculations. The scene recalls the classic days of Greece, when the Athenian citizens turned out en masse to hear and criticise a play by Sophocles.

Still, one aspect of the affair is notencouraging. Why, for example, should Judge Hillyer, a "fine lawyer" we are told, produce such a word as "harranging?" Alderman Howell's failure to spell "catafalque" correctly was perhaps more excusable; but surely Alderman Woodward should not have balked, as he did, at the now famous word "innocu us." One of the very best spellers, also, missed "ottose;" and Mr. Charlie Harman spelt bombasine with a "bum." The fact that a dozen men, including two colonels, a judge and an alderman, could not get "marcescible" right should not, perhaps, be regarded as strange, for the word is not in common use. But the champion speller, he who gave "the finest exhibition of the sort ever given in Atlanta," finally succumbed to water plaintain, leaving out the a in the last syllable.

in the last syllable. in the last syllable.

On the whole, then, the true conclusion seems to be that Atlanta is moving in the right direction, that her people have intellectual ambition and enthusiasm, that much may be expected of them in the future, but that until her judiciary cease to spell haranguing "harranging," her hold on literature must be regarded as somewhat feeble.

Hall, of Lumpkin county, will be returned to the house, and certain it is that county cannot choose a man who could do it more good, of whose services would reflect more credit, not only on the county, but on that section of the state. Mr. Hall is being opposed by the argument that while in the house he introduced a bill for the relief of a man named White, who lives in New York, the bill providing that he be returned fifty dollars, which he had paid as a fine. The bill was introduced "by request" and was so marked, and anybody that knows anything about legislation ought to know that such an introduction does not commit the member offering the measure to its support. Every man has a right to be heard, and if Mr. White wanted his $50, Mr. Hall did exactly right in giving him an opportunity to go before a legislative committee to show his reasons for asking for it. Mr. Hall refused to support the bill, and did nothing further than to put it before a committee "by rèquest," as it is recorded. The effort made to make it appear that Mr. Hall's interest in the Okefenokee measure was purely personal, is best answered by the statement that he was not even a bidder for the swamp. He offered the state forty thousand dollars more for it than it got, but withdrew his bid when the argument was advanced that he was in the legislature which provided for the sale of the swamp. As to the "Olive bill," the grand jury of Lumpkin county passed resolutions, asking him to do all in his power to defeat the bill, and on that measure he sided with many of the albest members of the last house and with the best interests of the state. Mr. Hall made one of the best representatives that north Georgia ever had in the legislature, and, if returned to the house, will be in a position to be of more service than ever to his prople. He was one of the most popular members in the leat house, and it is probable that he will be one of the leading members in the next. -It is very probable that Hon. Frank W. SHOT TO DEATH.

ONE PENITENTIARY GUARD DELIB-ERATELY KILLS ANOTHER.

An Argument as to the Excellence of a Piece of Cake Causes the Murder—Large Rewards for the Criminal's Capture.

A piece of cake was the cause of the murder of a convict guard.

The scene of the affair was Coal City, Dade county, and the time last Wednesday evening.

Mr. William H. Turner, of the penitentiary department, returned yesterday from the conviet camp at Coal City and told the story of the affair. Last Tuesday night the guards who, during the day, watch the prisoners working in the coal mines, formed themselves into a chorus and visited several residences to serenade the

At several of the houses they were invited in and offered refreshments. On Wednesday evening when the guards gathered round the supper table, they discussed the previous evening's amusement and freely commented on the good things which had been offered them. Finally one of the guards, John Sells by name, and a young man of excellent character, expressed the opinion that the cake offered him by a certain lady was the best he had

For some unknown reason the remark excited the anger of a guard named A. L. Jordan, who is now accused of being a refugee from Tennessee justice. Jordan asserted with an oath that any man who claimed that that particular lady could make cake, lied.

Sells naturally resented the remark, and claimed that any man who cast any reflections on the lady's ability to make cake was a liar.

Then Jordan, without warning, reached behind him and drew a heavy 44-caliber pistol. Grasping it in both hands he leaned across the able until the weapon was within a foot of Sells's breast, and pulled the trigger. A loud explosion shook the walls of the room, and when the smoke cleared away the guards about the table were horrified to see Sells rise from his chair, turn round several times in a dazed way and then fall heavily to the floor. When they gathered about him be was gasping in the last agonies and a moment later was dead.

Jordan stood by wacthing the effect of his that and never tried to leave the room until he saw that his victim had ceased breathing. At the first step he took one of the seven men in the room made motion to stop him, but Jordan pointed his revolver at the growd and threatened to kill the first man who molested him. Then he passed out and disappeared in the darkness.

When the first shock had passed the guards organized and went in search of the murderer, but he had made good his escape, and has not yet been apprehended.

When Sells was examined it was found that the ball from Jordan's pistol had passed through him and had buried itself in the door

m front of which he was sitting. The murder had created much excitement in Coal City. Dade county will offer a reward for Jordan's capture. The governor will be requested to do the same, and the guards are contributing towards a purse which they will give to any man who brings the fugitive to was made on the Fulton County Street railroad yesterday afternoon. The invention was the anti-friction wheel of Mr. J. W. Cooper, who is best known as the inventor of the Cooper plane. It is a new departure in railroad-building, and the announcement of the trial, therefore, brought out a number of gentlemen who felt an in-

The invention is aimed to fill a long-felt want in railroad construction. It is a fact evident to everybody that in turning a curve one of the wheels on each axle must move faster than the other. With wheels pressed on the axies as they always are so that they must of necessity move together, the curves cause great friction upon one of the wheels. It is to correct this that Mr. Cooper has made what he calls his antification wheel. One wheel is put upon each axle, and it is made so that it will run faster or slower than the other one, according faster or slower than the other one, according as the case may require. This end is accom-plished by means of a series of anti-friction rollers—as they might be called—inside the wheel of which the friction is so distributed as to reduce it to the minimum.

It was 4:45 yesterday afternoon when a party of gentlemen boarded the large open car which had been fitted out with two of these Cooper of gentlemen boarded the large open car which had been fitted out with two of these Cooper wheels. There were in the party Mr. Cooper, the inventor; Mr. Howell Erwin, who is interested in the patent; Colonel R. A. Anderson, Mr. Lamar Colher and Mr. Martin Dooley, of the Western and Atlantic; Mr. Roberts, master mechanic of the East Tennessee; Mr. G. V. Gress, Mr. W. H. Patterson, Colonel Scully, Dr. John S. Holliday, Mr. R. A. Holliday, Mr. John T. Moody, Mr. L. H. Beck, Mr. H. P. Ashley, Mr. D. W. Johnson, and others.

The Fulton company has had in its shops a number of these large open cars, but has been unable to use them, because some of the curves on the road were too sharp. With these wheels, however, the curves were turned not only with great ease, but without any of that jerking and pulling which the average rar goes through as it turns a curve. This feature showed that there was certainly real merit in the wheel. An examination showed that while the wheels of this tar were free from heat.

The wheel was put to every test. Efferts were made to throw it from the track, but these were unavailing. In short, so far a yesterday's experiment goes, the Cooper wheel works like a charm. The wheel is especially adapted to street cars, but Mr. Cooper and the gentlemen interested with him are equally confident of its adaptability to railroad cars of all kinds. They expect to go at once to New York and try to have these adopted on the levated roads.

All who saw the wheel yesterday were

DR. BINDER'S DEATH

His Leg Amputated by His Physicia Dies from the Shock.

Dr. Binder is dead. About ten days ago Dr. Binder was hurt in friendly scuffle in the corridors of the Kimball house.

The small bone of his left leg was broken and the large bone dislocated. He was sent to his home in Edgewood, apparently suffering very little from the effects of the wound.

But his wounds were worse than the physi-ians apprehended, and gangrene set in, from the ankle joint. Yesterday it was decided to amputate the limb, and Dr. K. C. Divine, assisted by Drs. Duncan, Joye and Gaston, amputated the wounded limb just below the knee.

Dr. Binder died after the operation, never having recovered from the shock. All the medical attention and careful nursing that could be given was rendered to the old doctor during his sufferings.

A BAD ACCIDENT.

Two Railroad Trains Collide at the Seventy-two Mile Post. A serious wreck occurred yesterday morning on the Georgia Pacific road.

At 8 o'clock a freight train was standing on the siding at the seventy-two mile post when another train attempted to use the same track going in an opposite direction.

There was the usual result of such experients, and another bad wreck was added to the long list of railroad casualities. When an account of the damage could be obtained, it was found that Brakeman Head, of Tallapoosa, had been probably seriously cut about the head, and several others had re ceived injuries from which they will be some time in recovering. The two engines were badly wrecked, and a fire which started immediately after the acci-dent, consumed eight cars and their contents. Several other cars were derailed and more or less injured. Altogether, several thousand dollars will hardly cover the loss.

It was reported that during the past week $6,000 have been contributed toward building the home and it was agreed to solicit subscriptions for another week.

THE TWO DAVIS BOOKS.

No Conflict Between Them, But Each On Different Line.

There appears to be some conflict between the Davis memorial volumes now offered to the public, the one published by Messrs. Belford & Co., of New York, and written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis, entitled: "Jefferson Davis, ex-President of the Confederate States; a Memoir by His Wife;" the other is a life of Jefferson Davis by Rev. J. William Jones, of Atlanta, and published by a Richmond firm. The scope of the two works is entirely different. The work of Mrs. Davis, which consists of two volumes, is virtually a history of the confederacy, and of the circumstances leading up to the war, as well as the life of Mr. Davis. It deserves a place in every library where any effort is made to collect anything like a record It deserves a place in every library where any of the war. This book of Mrs. Davis' will probably be the most valuable contribution of this character, from a southern stand-point, that will ever be offered to the public.

Davis asked Mr. Jones to make a collection of such comments and memorials.

Mrs. Davis' work, however, is the only complete biographical and historical work, as the following letter, written by her, will show:
Dear Sir: In answer to your inquiry I have to respond that the only liography or life of ex-President Davis, of which I know anything, personally, or in the preparation of which I have assisted, in any degree, is the one I am writing; the title is, "Jefferson Davis, ex-President of the Confederate States, a memoir by his wife," to be published by subscription by the Belford company, 18

GEORGIA RAILROADS.

ROADS PROJECTED AND OTHERS IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION.

Millen and Southern-South Bound-Talbotton and Western-Atlanta, Asheville and Baltimore-Other Gossip.

In the history of Georgia, at least, this is an era of railroad building. It is very probable that the high-water mark will be reached this year or next, and Georgia will show more niles built than any other state for 1890. The Georgia, Carolina and Northern, the Macon and Birmingham, the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery, and the Eden exension of the Central, the Marietta and North Georgia, the Columbus Southern, and the Middle Georgia and Atlantic will make up the bulk of the building this year.

Then the Georgia Southern and Florida branch from Tifton to Thomasville is almost a

Work will begin this year on the Macon and Savannah

The South Bound will add something. It is projected to run from Savannah, Ga., via Allendale, S. C., Barnwell, S. C., and Blackville, S. C., to Columbia, S. C., a distance of 145 miles. The road will be built by the Sa vannah Construction company, with a capital stock of $500,000, all subscribed. Contracts will be let in a short time for the entire road Herman Myers, Savannah, Ga., is president, and Michael Brown, Barnwell, S. C., is general manager. The Savannah, Americus and Montgomery is to extend in two directions. A survey has been made from the present eastern terminus at Stirling, southeast to Walthourville, Ga., on the Darien Short Line, a distance of fiftyfive miles. The latter road is being built to Darien on the sea coast, and reaches a large timber district. The right-of-way for the proposed extension has been secured as far as the Ohoopee river, near Reidsville, in Tatmall outhern. Then the Millen and So reorganization of the old Rogers and Stilmore railroad. It is proposed to take up nine miles of the old track from Rogers south, and to de flect the north end of the road to Millen, Ga. The road will then be extended from Stilmore to Stirling, Ga., a distance of 483 miles. Nearly all of the right of way has been ob-There will be a 6,200 foot bridge across the Ogeechee river and swamp. The contract for this bridge has been let to C. K. Leutner, and the contract for the grading to J. L. R. Millen, of 16 Beaver street,

New York city, is president.

The Dublin and Abbeville is a promising project. The company has made application for a charter in Georgia to build a railroad from Dublin to Abbeville, about forty-five miles. It will connect at the latter place with the proposed Abbeville and Tifton, from Abbeville to Tifton, about forty miles. The directors are: R. L. Warthen, J. W. Smith, O. H. Rogers, G. W. Perkins, A. F. Daley and Charles Hicks. The capital stock is $50,000.

Then the Abbeville and Tifton. Application has been made in Georgia for a charter for this road, which is to extend from Abbeville southwest about forty miles to Tifton. An extension is projected from Abbeville northeast to Dublin, about forty-five miles, but a charter for this division has not been applied for. The incorporators of the road are: George W. Perkins, R. L. Warthen, J. W. Smith, Henry C. Perkins, Zachariah Daniel, Charles Hicks, A. F. Daley and O. H. Rogers.

J. T. Hand, Abbeville,

The Empire and Dublin railroad is now extending rapidly to the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad in Houston county, with Fort Valley as its ultimate limit. The proposed line will extend southward from Hawkinsville through Wilcox, Irwin and Coffee counties, and on to Atlanta. It will cross the Savan-

Talbotton and Western surveys are now in progress between Taibotton,Ga., and the Flint River, via Prattsburg and Carsonville. As soon as this line is surveyed the engineers will begin the survey of a line from Talbotton to a point on the Georgia Midland and Gulf railroad between Waverly Hall and Ellerslie. It is stated that construction will commence as soon as the surveys are completed.

The extension of the Georgia Midland from McDonough will add something.

Still another project is for building a road from McDonough, Ga., on the Georgia Midland and Gulf, north through DeKalb county, via Clarkson, to Doraville, about twenty-five miles, is agitated. The Georgia Midland and Gulf will be asked to build the extension, and as its refusal is anticipated, it is asserted that an independent company will be organized.

Point and White Plains, promises an extension.

The Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus will probably be pushed on to a connection with the Macon and Birmingham at LaGrange.

The Atlanta and Florida is thinking very seriously about going on to Hawkinsville.

A charter is applied for to build a road from Danielsville south about eight miles, to connect at a point west of Elberton with the line of the Georgia, Carolina and Northern, now building. An abandoned grade of the Augusta and Chattanooga road will be used. This will require but little repair. George F. Daniel and R. Russell, of Danielsville, are interested.

Atlanta has a name in three other roads. The first of these is the Atlanta and Alabama, the one of which Judge Henry B. Tompkins is president and in which Captain L. E. O'Keefe and others of this place are interested. The next is the Atlanta, Asheville and Baltimore. Great interest is felt along the line in South and North Carolina, where the first work will be done. Chester county, S. the talked-of extension of the Rome road, the Fort Payne and Eastern, and a dozen others.

The total will not be less than 500 miles this year, and may go considerably over 600.

That's the day of the conductors' picnic. A big crowd is going, and every convenience has been provided for carrying them. The grounds at "Pearl Lake," near Newman, are naturally at "Pearl Lake," near Newman, are naturally fitted for pienic grounds, and a great deal of money has been spent in addition by the Atlanta and West Point road, by whom the site is owned. The lake covers about ten acres, and free boat rides will be given. Chastain, the boy wonder, will walk on the water a distance of 100 yards with a man on his shoulders, and will offer a prize to be competed for in water shoes. Other enjoyable features are down on the programme, and a good time is promised those that attend.

those that attend.

Pearl lake is said by those that have seen it to be a beautiful place, a little more than an hour's ride from Atlanta, and will doubtless become a popular favorite this season with the principles.

Savannah Railroad Notes. SAVANNAH, Ga., April 28.-[Special.]-Mr. W. D. Thomas, chief clerk of the purchasing department of the Central road, has severed his department of the Central groad, has severed his connection with that corporation. Mr. Thomas has been in the employ of the Central for the past seven years. During that time he has won the respect of the business men of Savannah and has been distinguished for his ability and perfect integrity.

It was hoped that the Savannah and Western extension of the Central would connect with the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery in time for Merchants' week. Up to last night the roads had met at the Ohoopee river, and two gangs were at work on the bridge. It is hoped that a train will cross the bridge on Tuesday but travel cannot be opened over the Tuesday but travel cannot be opened over the a week or ten days.

On a Tour of Inspection. Macon, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Vice-President Fink, of New York, General Manager Hudson, of Knoxville, and Superintendent Barnes, of Atlanta, prominent officials of the East Tennessee railroad, passed through Macon this afternoon on a tour of inspection.

An Immense Railroad Scheme. MACON, Ga., April 28.-[Special.]-President W. B. Sparks, of the Macon Construction company, has returned from New York, where he has been in the interest of his railroad projects. He confirms the report that a million dollar construction company has been formed to build a road from Macon to Savannah or Port Royal. He says the company will certainly build to one of these points. Savannah is, doubtless, preferred, but the terminal facilities are so much higher there than in Port Royal that the road may have to be carried to the latter place. If the road goes to Savannah, the company will be called the Macon and Savannah Construction company. Shares are worth $10,000 each. The Macon Construction company of the Georgia Southern road, owns half of the stock. Seventy thousand dollars more are owned in Macon thousand dollars more are owned in Macon by S. R. Jaques, R. H. Plant, and other prom-inent citizens. This puts the Central in Ma-con. Five shares are owned in Savannah, and parties there wish six more shares, which will make eleven shares owned in Savannah. If these six share are not placed in Savannah, parties there wish six more shares, which will make eleven shares owned in Savannah. If these six share are not placed in Savannah, Macon parties will gladly take them. The balance of shares, $320,000, is owned by New York parties, five of whom are bank presidents. Among the New Yorkers are J. A. Stewart, president United States Trust company; J. D. Vermillye, president Merchants' National bank; Charles S. Fairchild, president New York Security and Trust company and ex-secretary of United States treasury under Cleveland; A. Bocker, Isidore Straus and other wealthy New Yorkwiss are stockholders. W. B. Sparks cill be president of the new company; Jeffersou Lane, general manager; H. L. Jewett, secretary and treasurer. These parties are all Maconites. This company is a separate organization from the Macon Construction company of the Georgia Southern railway. Mr. Sparks says the new company has no connection with the Macon and Dublin road, E. C. Machen or any other Georgia institution. He says his company will build to Savannah or Port Royal, regardless of how many other roads may go to either place. Savannah is the desired point of terminal facilities can be obtained at reasonable figures. The organization of the engineering corps will be perfected at once and operations in the field will begin June 1st. In two years it is calculated that a great railroad syndicate will be seen in Georgia and Sparks's roads will have short and magnificent connections. They come from Birmingham by the Macon and Birmingham road, from Chattanooga by the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus road, which will be extended from Carrollton to Lagrange, and there connect with the Macon and Birmingham road to Culloden, and there connect with the Atlanta and Florida June 1st and will reach Lagrange in September.

Beautiful Picnic Grounds.

The two pretiest places for picnics near Atlanta are Vinings station and Brown park, in Marietta.

The beautiful grove, the large and delicions freestone spring, and the elegant and capacious covered platform at Vinings, have made it emphatically the favorite during the past two years.

Brown park, opened and improved this year, and a quarter of a mile from the railroad in Marietta, is a magnificent forest with two clear branches running through it. It has one freestone and two mineral springs.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A Meeting Yesterday Which is Occupied With Yesterday afternoon the board of education held its regular meeting. There were present Messrs. Hemphill, English, Calhoun, Roach, Kontz, Bray, Hammond, Beattie and Glenn.

During the session of the board Mrs. E. Margurite Lindley appeared and requested to be heard on the subject of physical, culture as a department in the public schools.

Mrs. Lindley's proposition was to take charge of the physical culture department at a salary of one hundred dollars per month, with two assistants at $75 per month each.

After discussion the board decided that the appropriation would not permit the inauguration of a physical culture department, and the proposition was not accepted, was presented and held over to the next meet ing, according to the rules. A resolution was adopted laying before the city council the fact that considerable trouble was experienced by the board in getting a quorum together. The resolution asked that some action be taken by the council tending to make the attendance of nembers of the board more prompt.

Before the board adjourned a committee was appointed to draft suitable resolutions on the death of Hon. David Mayer, who was for years a leading member of the board of education and prominent in all educational matters. A GOOD TIME COMING.

Man Who from His Youth Up Commanded the Admiration of His Countrymen— Sketch of His Life.

A heavy band of crepe was placed on the lor bell of the mansion house yesterday.

The token of grief was hung there as an em-Memot the deep sorrow which was caused the verner's family by the death of Major John Ever since the close of the war Major Lewis made his home with Governor Gordon, nd he was regarded with the deepest veneraand ne was regimened by all those who were rought under the influence of his wonderful llect and courtly manners.

HIS SICKNESS.

Although Major Lewis had attained a great age, and had been in feeble health for many sge, and had deen in record health for many gears, his death was unexpected and was a great shock to the family.

Early in the spring he was attacked with the grip, and his advanced age made it diffi-sult for him to rally. Dr. Ridiey, who has Within balf an hour after Dr. Ridley's departure a sudden paller spread over the old gentleman's features, and in spite of all efforts to revive him he sank steadily and passed away without a struggle.

MAJOR LEWIS'S BARLY LIFE. Major Lewis was born in Greene county, in September, 1805, and he would consequently have been 85 years old if he had lived until the

Gifted with rare intellectual powers and with a mind cultured by long study and a close ob-pervation of passing events, Major Lewis formed one of the most prominent figures in Georgia at a time when great men were in public life, and a man of ordinary acquirements could attract little or no attention. At an early age, Major Lewis entered the University of Georgia, and immediately took high stand. He was ambitious, and was soon recognized as the finest speaker and de-bater of his time. In 1823, he graduated at the age of seventeen years, taking the first honors from young men much older than him-

Major Lewis's father was a man of great wealth, and there was no need of the young graduate's taking any immediate steps toward seeking a profession.

The reputation he had made at college, however, marked him out from among his fellows as one pre-eminently fitted for public life, and even before he reached his twenty-first birthday he was talked of for congress.

YEARS OF TRAVEL. For awhile he put aside his ambitious dreams years of age, however, he determined to commence his career, and was elected to serve his state from Troup county in the legislature of 1835 and 1836. He was the last member of that legislature, Col. N. C. Barnett, who served with him, having died a few weeks ago. While in the legislature Major Lewis made a reputation second to none. The people of those days traveled miles to hear him speak, and those who heard him said that his eloquence was wonderful.

Two measures in which he took a leading part form chapters in the history of Georgia. A bill incorporating the Atlantic and Western railroad was submitted to him. He examined It one day, and after returning from an evening entertainment, he drew up another bill which was passed by the legislature.

The act which gave Major Lewis a national reputation, however, was that which incorpotated the first female college in America. Major Lewis was always a strong advocate of the higher education of women, and he introduced the bill to found the Wesleyan Female

HIS FAMOUS SPRECH. Major Lewis was absent from the house when the bill came up for consideration. Charles J. Jenkins sought him out and told him the bill was lost unless he took some active steps. Major Lewis hurried to the house, and trom his seat fie delivered an oration so eloquent and forcible that he convinced his bearers of the necessity of the act, and the bill

After leaving the legislature he was re-Quested to deliver an address on female educa-tion before the literary society of Columbus, and his speech was so masterly that it became almost a classic and received the highest praise from such men as Edgar Allan Poe.

After leaving the legislature Major I e vis enter active practice. His health, however, tave out completely and prevented his carrying his intentions into effect. He was even forced to refuse to run for congress when he was offered the nomination and was absolutely certain of being elected.

After several years passed in trying to repain his health, Major Lewis removed to Washington and remained there while his brother-in-law, the Hon. Hugh A. Harralson, was in congress.

SERVING THE CONFEDERACY. When the clouds of war began to gather over his native state, he left Washington and teturned to the south to offer his services to the confederate government. He was ap-pointed by President Davis to a responsible office and served faithfully at Richmond as long as there was a government there to berve.

It is told of Major Lewis that when the the stold of Major Lewis that when the enemy was about Richmond, and the citizens were being served with guns to defend the tity, that he presented himself to the officer distributing the weapons and asked to be armed. The officer told him he was too old, and thereby so expired the old continuous transmitter. and thereby so excited the old gentleman's wrath that he told his friends he wished to knock the officer down.

HIS LAST DAYS. When the war closed Major Lewis was affered a home by Governor Gordon, and, as he was Mrs. Gordon's uncle and devoted to the family, he accepted the offer, and remained a dearly-loved member of the governor's household until his death.

As soon as it became evident that he was passing away Governor Gordon, who is in New York on official business, was telegraphed for. He replied at once that he had received the news too late to catch the afternoon train. He left, however, with Mrs. Gordon, who is with him, by the evening train, and will arrive in Atlanta tomorrow morning.

THE FUNERAL SERVICES. The funeral services will be held at the m sion house tomorrow at 12 o'clock, and the interment will take place at LaGrange as scon after as practicable. Major Lewis frequently expressed a desire to be buried by the side of his idolized sister, Mrs. Harralson, and his wishes will be religiously respected.

Mr. Newman has long been identified with the traveling men of the south, and his presence in the city infuses new life into the Atlanta branch of the Southern Travelers' Association, inasmuch as he is giving all his influence toward making May week in Atlanta a season long to be remembered in the annals of the mercantile world.

Saturday evening Mr. Newman organized the Columbus branch of the Savannah Travelers' with eighty members. The traveling men of that city, as well as the merchants, have evinced great interest in the affairs of the association, and will send a large delegation of representative men to Atlanta next week. From here Mr. Newman, as dent of the Southern Travelers' association, goes to Savannah, then to Charleston, where he has been formally invited to address the Charleston Post Travelers' Protective association, with a view to bringing the members over to the Southern Travelers' association.

The address will be delivered on April 30th, and on May 1st Mr. Newman will attend the banquet and respond to a toast from the Travelers' Protective association.

He will return via Athens to Atlanta Saturday, and will attend a meeting of the board of directors on that day at the Kimball house.

How to Buy Cigars. Is it more profitable for a retail dealer in cigars to buy from the manufacturer than from the jobber? This is a vital question for every retailer to consider.

We have saved our customers the jobber's prifit

We have saved our customers the jobber's prifit for the last six years. This accounts partly for the steady increase of the demand for our fine Havana cigars which equal in taste, flavor and Spanisn workmanship the best imported from Cuba; and they give entire satisfaction, for Atlanta's prominent men have been our steady customers ever since we established our factory.

We sell to the retail trade at wholesale price in quantities of one box and upward. We guarantee our goods and ship them to any place in the country. And we are willing at any time to take the goods back and refund the money if they do not turn out to be as we represent them. The buyer runs, therefore, no risk at all:

TERMS OF THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT. Mr. S. G. Doran telegraphed the Atlanta managers yesterday that everything would be all right, and that the firm would be able to pay dollar for dollar.

"The plan of settlement," said Captain Harwell, "as indicated by Mr. Doran's dispatch is: The creditors to accept thirty, sixty and ninety day notes for the amounts due them. Then business will be continued, all transactions being for cash. The company feels pos itive of being able to settle everything satis-

"Will the terms be accepted?"
"Look at this. See what Mr. Doran says." The telegram he held in his hands was one just received. "We are confident of settlement," it read. "Creditors everywhere accept our terms."

"And the Atlanta office?" "Oh, I think everything will be fixed all right here. The creditors haven't all accepted, but I think they will. The Atlanta office has proved all right from the first. We have done a good business and I have no doubt will be able to do it in the future. No firm in New York has stood better than the Doran & Wright company, and no men are better known on the exchanges than the men who compose this company. Oh yes, I've no doubt every-thing will be fixed satisfactorily by to-morrow." The Atlanta office is said to owe something between $5,000 and $6,000.

SOME IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENTS ON THE UNION LINES.

Continuous Schedule from West End to Piedmont Park—Fulton County Spin-ning Mills to Exposition Mills.

The Union Street Railway company is givng a more perfect service every day.

Before the summer is over, five cents will carry you from Westview cemetery to Oak-land, or from West End to Ponce de Leon prings or Piedmont park. A nickel will carry you almost anywhere ou may happen to want to go.

This is to be accomplished partly by a check-transfer system, and partly by extended lines and improved schedules. Already a great deal has been done toward giving the public a first-class street-car serv

Yesterday, many doubtless noticed the vacant appearance of the tracks on Peachtree street, between Marietta and the railroad.

They have outlived their usefulness. The stream of cars that kept constantly mov ing along Broad street, also attracted consid-

A new order of things has gone into effect. Ever since the lines were built the Peach-tree, Marietta and Decatur-street cars have stopped to change horses and start again in the opposite direction at the junction of the three streets, at the artesian well, and the Whitehall cars have done likewise at the Capital City bank corner.

But they will do so no more. The mules have learned a new pace, and he cars run on a new schedule. Yesterday morning cars began running from Piedmont park to West End by the newly laid tracks on Marietta, Broad and Alabama streets, and another schedule from Kimball street to McDaniel street.

They make the trip without transfer or stop at Marietta or Whitehall streets. Another big improvement is a similar arrangement on the Marietta and Decatur street

Cars run through from the Fulton County Spinning mills to the Exposition Cotton mills passing each other on the siding which has been recently put down in front of the Kimball The schedule between West End and Piedmont park is, a car every fifteen minutes, leaving each end of the line. Between Kimball street and McDaniel street cars run on a seven-and-one-half minute schedule, and also a seven-and-a-half minute schedule between the Exposition Cotton mills and the Fulton County Spinning mills. The Marietta and Decatur street lines have been running on this connection for several days, and Superintendent Patterson yesterday said that already the convenience of the arrangement had almost doubled the net receipts on the two lines. By the connection of the Whitehall and Peachtree lines the public is given a convenience that must be at once realized.

One fare takes a passenger from north to outh Atlanta, and, by crossing Broad street bridge, the great annoyance of waiting for trains to pass is avoided, without counting the danger of such trips.

Major Campbell Wallace Bringing the Dead of His Family Together.

The services of Memorial Day call to mind an incident which happened a few days past in which parties both in Tennessee and Georgia are interested.

The Augusta Chronicle in noticing it, says: Captain W. H. Warren yesterday performed a touching task for his friend, Major Campbell Wallace.

touching task for his friend, Major Campbell Wallace.

Some days ago he received a letter from the latter gentleman, asking him to accomplish the exhuming of the remains of two of his family, and send them to him to Atlanta.

Major Wallace refugeed in Augusta in 1884, living out at the Sibley place at the foot of the Little Sand Hills. While here, he lost two of his family, a daughter and brother-in-law. His daughter, Miss Susan Lyon Wallace, was just reaching womanhood when death robbed the pleasant home circle of her presence. A few days afterward, her uncle, Captain William Lyon, was laid at her side. Major Wallace subsequently removed to Atlanta and is now in keeping with his methodical nature, gathering the dust of his dead, many of whom died away from the family brot-tree, and his effort now is to have the family burial place in Atlanta hold all that remains of his loved ones, where he can, when his life's work is ended, rest among them. Captain Warren superintended the task allotted him by friendship, and the Georgia railroad yesterday conveyed to Major Wallace a precious cargo.

The remains of Captain Lyon were forward-

The remains of Captain Lyon were forwarded by Major Wallace to Knoxville, where they will be interred in the old Lyon burying ground in that city.

Here you would be independent of street cars, for you would be right at churches, stores, schools and the various industries near this property. Nice, clean cottages would rent to good thrifty and industrious tenents forever, and at proper prices. Here is the place to make a first-class investment. The improvements now going on around these blocks are bound to enhance the value of everything upon these streets. You can't make a mistake in buying any of these lots, because they are properly located. People are moving into Atlanta from all over the country, especially from the cold and flooded districts. New factories are going up all the time, while the old ones are constantly increasing their capacity. These new comers must have homes; they have got the money and will have them, and of course must pay four prices in the future. Now is your chance to buy cheap; $1,000 invested in this property now may be worth two or three thousand in a year or so. It is now admitted that no place in the United States is admitted that no place in the United States is admitted. In every department we are ready, and prepared to show advance styles for spring.

A Vacant Judgship-The Probable Contest Over the Comptrollership-Advocat ing Early State Convention.

PALATKA, Fla., April 28 .- [Special.]-There ba warmth about the political pot in Florida year that is a little more than fever heat for the amateur politicians.

Starting at the extreme western part Starting at the extreme western part of the state we find a vacancy in the judgeship of the first judicial circuit, caused by the death of Judge McClellan. There is now existing a question as to who will be appointed his successor. We have noticed in print mentioned the names of Judge P. W. White and J. W. Malone, of the second dristrict, but it is not probable that these gentlemen will be appointed, as it is not customary for a judge to be selected who does not reside in the district over which he is to preside. The names of those most prominently spoken of as the possible candidates are the Hon. W. D. Barnes, the present comptroller of the state, and Major Lidden, of Marianna. The appointment of the first named gentleman would have vacated the office which are the 1001.

Iroller of the state, and Major Lidden, of Marianna. The appointment of the first named gentleman would have vacated the office which he now holds, necessitating the position being filled by appointment through the governor, until the choice of the people should be voiced at the polls in November. Just who will fill the office of judgeship in the first district is not known, as the present governor is one whose actions cannot be surmised until he acts officially, not even by his confidential advisors, owing to the fluctuations of his mind. It is very necessary that the appointment of Judge McClellan's successor should be made once, as the time is drawing near for the spring term of court in the first circuit to convene.

THE COMPTROLLERSHIP.

the first circuit to convene.

THE COMPTROLLERSHIP.

Should Comptroller W. D. Barnes be appointed, the present political aspect would be materially changed and a more interesting campaign follow. To appoint a new comptroller to fill the unexpired term of W. D. Barnes would interest the state politicians generally, and set—the amateurs at work to such a degree that might impair their young minds, and unfit them for further service.

ADVOCATING AN FABLY CONTROL

ADVOCATING AN EARLY CONVENTION. ADVOCATING AN EARLY CONVENTION.

The Jacksonville Times-Union, which claims to be the leading exponent of democratic principles in Florida, and foremost in events of a public nature, is just now taxing its capacities to an alarming degree. Going beyond the wishes of the people generally, it is advocating an early state convention, and urges upon the executive committee to issue a call. But there is a method in its madness. The Times-Union is "at outs" with the state executive committee, and by having an early executive committee, and by having an early convention, it hopes to have appointed a committee that will be subjected to its dictates. But the Times-Union is young in its ideas, and we think that those who have the right to call a convention will use good judgment and be governed by the wishes of the people in the promises.

A rumor in Florida is all the more disagreeable when a long campaign is before the people, and when we take into consideration the fact that the work before us is comparatively light, so far as the number of elective officers are concerned, it is not necessary that an early convention should burden the people with a long and tedious campaign, unfitting the farmer for his daily labors, and making the burden of party leaders an unnecessary task. The only state officers to be elected this year are two congressmen and a supreme court judge.

The senatorias contest.

The legislature of 1891 will be called upon to elect a United States senator to fill the

The legislature of 1891 will be called upon to elect a United States senator to fill the place of Wilkinson Call. The general idea is that he will be his own successor, though he will have a fight to gain it. One or two railroads are now at work trying to injure Senator Call's chances for re-election, but there is a native element in the state strengthered by the new comer who believe in and there is a native element in the state strength-ened by the new comer, who believe in and intend to stand by him. W. D. Chipley, who conducted the late state campaign, is now stumping the state against Senator Call, but the public, generally, believe that there is a secret motive behind his opposition and fight, and have reason to think that Mr. Chipley is trying to work up support for himself in this direction, and, should be suit, then anything and anybody to defeat Call. It has been published that one million dollars will be required to beat Call. So it will be seen that he is a to be at Call. So it will be seen that he is a very important person, but as our Florida legislature is not made up of merchandise to be bought and sold, the millions will be useless. Wilkinson Call will be his own successor in the United States senate.

Wilkinson Call will be his own successor in the United States senate.

Frank P. Fleming, our present governor, is also spoken of as a candidate, but the possibility of chosing him is so absurd as not to enter a moment's thought with the masses.

MIZELL'S RESIGNATION.

The resignation of John Mizell, as United States marshal for the northern district of Florida, has relieved the republican party of a burdensome load, and it is not possible that that party will now run him, as has been stated, to be collector of customs for Pensacola. The republicans are capable of standing a great deal, but there are some things that are even too weighty for it to uphold and carry. Had Mizell's confirmation been made sooner, his resignation would have been coming with equal rapidity.

The democrats of Florida are alive—the republicans are dead, but the carpet-bag days of reconstruction will observed as a second confirmation of the content of the carpet-bag days of reconstruction will observed in the carpet-bag days of reconstruction will observed in the carpet-bag days publicans are dead, but the carpet-bag days of reconstruction will always live as a darkened monument to a corruption that could make nothing but ruin, and go down to posterity as a period of the vilest of the vile.

Bristol Land

May 15, 16 and 17, 1890, AT BRISTOL Offer for Sale, at Auction,

1.000 Business and Residence Lots,

Bristol is situated on the State Line, between Virginia and Tennessee, at the junction of the Norfolk and Western, and East. Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroads; is the eastern terminus of the South Atlantic and Ohio railroad, extending from Bristol into the coal fields and connecting with Louisville and Nashville railroad, at Big Stone Gap, and is the western terminus of the Bristol, Eliz and No. Car railroad, now building into the rich ores of Doe Mountain and Roane's Creek in Johnson county, Tenn.

Bristol is not a "paper" city; it has a population of about 12,000, live, energetic people; is rapidly growing, and is destined to be one of the largest manufacturing cities of the south. It lies within three hours of inexhaustible coking and domestic coals, the richest iron ore in the United States, and immense bodies of Virgin timber, all of which reach Bristol via the S. A. and O. and Elizabethton roads.

SALESMAN—Yes, this is the stove you inquired for. As you say, it does not look exactly like the one your mother recommended you to buy, and which she thinks so much of, but it is a Charter Oak Range. We have the Cook Stoves of the same make but the kanges are used more generally now, as they are more converient. How long has your mother had her stove? Young Markied Lady—Oh! ever so long. She bought it when I was a baby, and has been using it ever since, and she told me I must get the same kind. I hat is, 't is a Charter Oak, but you must remember that twenty years is a long time, and improvements have been made since your mother go hers. This Range has the wonderful IF ire Gauxe Oven Door, which you have probably beard of, as it is known and sold everywhere in connection with our Stoves and Ranges.

Young Markied Lady—Oh! I remember now. She spoke about that, but I can't understand why that should make it so much better than our old stove, as that was as good as it would be.

SALESMAN—There is no doubt about its being much better; it is a wonderful improvement to bake everything so much nicer, and the meats are not dried up like they are in the old fashioned tight ovens. Why, a steak can be broiled is that oven as perfectly as over a charcoal free, and the natural jutices of the meat, which make it so appetizing, will all be retained. It is just the same with roast meats. Of course it is needless for me to speak of its other good qualities, as your mother's advice has made that unnecessary.

Young Markied Lady—Well, of course, I will take it. Please have it put up as soon as you can, as we have no stove yet. We are just commencing housekeeping, you know.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The stock market today was very active, and the strengh of upward novement was seen in the fact that notwithstandmovement was seen in the fact that how the seen at the heavier realizations than have been seen at any time since the rise began, to influence which was added the efforts of some of the trading element who believe that the reaction is due to a brea price. Offerings were all absorbed with but slight concessions in the active stocks, while when the pressure was removed, a full recovery was had, and a great majority of the list is fracwas had, and a great majority of the fist is fractionally higher tonight, with some material gains. The good bank statement Saturday had its influence, and enthusiasm among operators in the street was still undiminished this morning. But probably still undiminished this morning. But probably the most potent influence today was the magnitude of buying for foreign account, and as London prices were materially higher this morning and many commission houses had received orders to open the market up, the opening was extremely strong and the dull movement of Saturday was seen to have force still. The day's market showed that outsiders are a growing factor in the market, and that London shows a strong disposition to inand that London shows a strong disposition to invest in American securities. Purchases for foreigners included large amounts of St. Paul, Eric, Louisville and Nashville and other favorites. The bond list was also remembered in their purchases. There was no news which indicated any likelihood of an early termination of the fight between the warring western roads, and realizations were most pronounced after the high prices of the opening were established, but concessions in prices which followed were in almost all cases confined to small fractions. Though Lackawanna, Missouri Pacific and Chicago Gas were all prominent in the decline, the strength shown in Manhattan, Louisville and Nashville, Canada Pacific, New England, Wheeling and Lake and that London shows a strong disposition to insnown in Mannatan, Roussyne and Rash Massan, and Lake Erie, and Delaware and Hudson, together with other specialties, further encouraged the bulls, and the decline in prices went no further. Fluctuations, considering the large business done, there being fair-sized crowds in all the leading stocks, were small, and, after the first decline, there was a gradual hardening in values, which neutralized the losses of the the close, and prices in the last few minutes improved materially, the close being active and strong at close to the first prices for most of the Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular. NEW YORK, April 28—[Special.]—The market today was somewhat disappointed in the character of the advices received from Liverpool, prices there showing a slight recession as compared Saturday. The result was a small decli tablished is supposed to have come largely from houses identified with Wall street, and is regarded as an expression of a belief that a revival of speculation in every department of commerce is inevitable upon the passage of the silver bill. At the close there was an obvious effort to realize profits on the part of some of the earlier buyers with the result of bringing prices back to Saturday's figures on the new crop positions, but a considerable portion of the improvement in September and October was retained. Exporters report the market in Liverpool supplied from other than export sources at below current quotations, and it is assumed that the most prominent Liverpool bull is realizing upon his spot holdings. realizing upon his spot holdings.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 28—Wheat—Only a light business was tradsacted today. Outside orders were fewer, and looal traders did not show any inclination to operate in large lines or blocks. The un-settled condition of the labor question tends to in-terfere with business more or less. Operators, too, feel disposed to await deliveries on May contracts. The market also seems to have got into a rut, and until it is taken out of this no large business can be expected. Fluctuations were confined within 3/2% for May and June and 1/2c for July, varying only slightly from the closing figures of Saturday, and closed about ½c lower for May and June and ½c lower for July. No important news relating to the crop was received, the regular weekly official bulletin, if anything, being a little more favorable.

Corn -There was only a moderate trade, the mar-ket ruling quiet a greater part of the session, fluc-tuations being confined within \(\lambda_{\omega} \end{cases} \) range. The feeling was easier, and the bulk of the sales were made at reduced prices. Fine weather and a larger movement had a tendency to increase offerings, and the market ruled lower in consequence. An exporter sold May and bought July at 1c difference. The market opened at 1/2/2/4c under the ence. The market opened at 1/201/2 under the closing prices of Saturday, was easy, but afterwards advanced 1/20, reacted and closed 1/201/2 lower than Saturday.

Oats were quiet and steady. Price changes were confined to 1/20, and the closing sales were at a slight reduction from Saturday's closing figures.

Mess pork—Very little interest was manifested, and the feeling was somewhat unsettled. Local operators sold about 5,000 barrels for June and July delivery, and this was the prominent, feature July delivery, and this was the prominent feature of the day. The opening sales were made at 25@ 30c decline, and a further reduction of 20@25c was submitted to. Later the feeling was stronger, and prices rallied 10@15c, closing easier. Lard—A dull and weaker feeling prevailed dur-ing a greater portion of the day, and prices de-clined 7½@10c on the whole range. Near the close the market was steadier, and prices improved slightly and closed steady.

Short rib sides—A fair trade was reported, and the feeling was weak. The opening sales were made at 5@71/2c decline, and a further reduction of 5c was submitted to. Near the close the demand improved slightly, and prices were a little more favorable to sellers.
The tollowing was the range in the leading fu-

DARWIN G. JONES, Stock, Bonds and Loans.

MADDOX, RUCKER & CO., BANKERS,

Having added $50,000 to our banking property, we are now arranging to move our office on the corner of our block, where we will be in a more prominent position, with better facilities, and we now propose to give more attention to the banking department of our business.

We solicit the accounts of banks, merchants and individuals, and will extend every accommodation consistent with sound banking.

Will negotiate loans on marketable securities. Allow interests on time deposits.

Having repeated requests, from various sources, to buy and sell stocks and bonds, we have concluded to deal generally in miscellaneous securities.

cluded to acar generacy.

Will buy and sell on commission, state, municipal and railroad bonds, and all kinds of stocks.

We can place first-class investment securities to advantage, and we invite proposals from cities and counties, when issuing bonds.

We do a general banking business and invite correspondence.

JAMES BANK.

6 per cent interest paid on time deposits. Transact a general banking business. We buy and sell bonds and stocks on commission or on margin. We also sell bonds for new railroads and other companies. We will act as agent for persons having money to lend on real estate. Your business solicited.
